LIVING IN TENT FOR MONTHS

Couple can't have hospital treatment without a home

A young homeless couple say they have been sleeping in a tent for the past nine months while waiting for council accommodation.

Clara Davidson, 25 and her partner James Patey, 28, have been living under canvas in Ewell Village after being forced out of their homes and having nowhere else to go.

"It started a couple of years ago," Miss Davidson said. "I had family problems, my step dad didn't want me there so I moved out. We started staying with friends here and there for about a year or so."

"Then we started sleeping on the floor outside, staying in bushes with just our coats so we had to get a tent."

The couple both suffer from hepatitis and James also has arthritis and a bone infection. Miss Davidson explained that they could not receive any treatment until they found proper accommodation.

"The treatment is so intense, it's like chemotherapy and the doctors won't let us start that until we have a proper home to live in," she said.

Miss Davidson said that as well as being depressed about not having anywhere to live, the pair were having to combat the bad weather and regular vandalism against their tent.

She said: "We woke up on Monday and it was like we were in a river, everything was soaked. We've also had to move the tent because it's been vandalised by kids. They come over on their bikes, go inside, put mud all up the sides and they've even pulled it down before."

The couple approached Epsom and Ewell Borough Council eight months ago but claim they never heard anything back.

"We approached councils, filled out forms and we got put on a waiting list but they never get back to us," she said. A spokeswoman for Epsom and Ewell Borough Council said that although they had tried to help, Miss Davidson had missed appointments with its officers.

She said: "While the council has endeavoured to assist Ms Davidson with her housing problem she has failed to attend two housing advice appointments and has terminated a third."

"Unfortunately the council has been unable to assess its legal obligation to Ms Davidson as she has not provided the necessary documentation needed to carry out the enquiries required under the homelessness legislation."

"Ms Davidson has not been in contact with Housing Services since September however, should she require further assistance then she can contact the council to organise another appointment."

New facelift for church

by HELEN CRANE

hcrane@london.newsquest.co.uk

Bulldozers will start knocking down Edwardian Epsom Baptist Church in the new year ready for a £1million rebuild.

It is part of a £7million scheme paid for by a development company, who will also build a new church hall, meeting rooms and other community facilities and new homes – including affordable homes and 31 sheltered apartments for the elderly.

Councillors gave permission for the scheme to go ahead at last week's meeting of the Epsom planning committee after last-minute negotiations about the number of affordable homes to be built on the site, which now make up 40 per cent of the total.

Pegasus, a company which specialises in building homes for elderly people, is to fund the development in Church Street next to the huge five-storey Capital Square which contains 110 flats and shops.

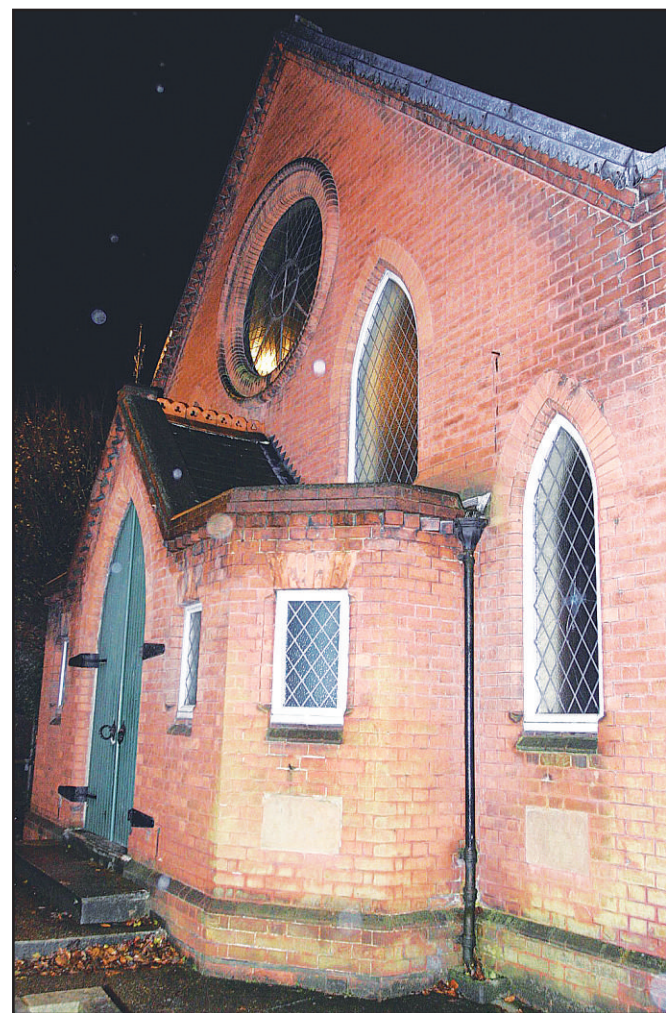

The baptist church scheme will be four stories high with a communal lounge, kitchen and an estates manager's office to service the sheltered accommodation which will also have a courtyard garden for residents.

The congregation has outgrown the baptist church and the new venue will be able to accommodate between 250 and 300 worshippers. While the building work goes on, which could take up to 18 months, church members will meet on Sundays at a local school.

Minister Colin Holmes said: "It has taken three years of emotional energy to get this under way. The church is growing so big that we have had to put in extra chairs on Sundays but we have got to the point that it is standing room only sometimes – which is a good problem to have. When it is finished it will meet so many needs of the community. We will be able to provide things for senior citizens, after-school clubs, things for mums and toddlers.

"It will become very much a church that is serving the community."

Demolition job: Epsom baptist Church will be replaced in 2008

Weighty issue: George, who weighs 2.2 kilos, meets Mildred, a more normal-sized hedgehog

Living high on the hog

George is a hog – his eating habits have made his waistline expand to the point where he can double up as a prickly football.

The hugely obese hedgehog, who weighs 2.2 kilos – four times the weight he should be – has attracted teams of reporters and television crews desperate for a new angle on the national obesity epidemic to Wildlife Aid in Leatherhead.

Discovered by one of Wildlife Aid's volunteers in the garden of friends, George was taken to the animal sanctuary where originally it was thought he was suffering from a condition called ballooning, where air gets trapped under the skin.

But later it was discovered George – who was brought in with another hedgehog called Mildred – was just vastly overweight.

Staff searched for a pair of scales to accommodate the enormous hog

by HELEN CRANE

hcrane@london.newsquest.co.uk

and were astounded at his weight – an average adult hedgehog will weigh between 600g and 700g.

Although George is fairly active, his health is being affected by the excess weight.

As in humans, carrying this amount of fat could cause obesity-related illnesses such as heart disease, high cholesterol levels, along with joint and mobility problems.

To tackle the problem George has been put on a strict animal equivalent of the Atkins diet. He has one meal a day of cat food which contains all the correct nutrients needed for a healthy hedgehog and is under the close observation of Wildlife Aid staff.

The other effect of the excess weight is that George has not yet shown any signs of going into hibernation. His insulating layer of fat is preventing him feeling the cold, and so his body is not telling him to go to sleep.

A spokesman for Wildlife Aid said: "He is currently being kept in a heated greenhouse to prevent him even trying to hibernate.

"If he were to start into hibernation there is a real possibility that toxins could be released into his body due to the layers of fat surrounding his internal organs, and this would most certainly kill him."

Along with many other animals and birds, the centre has 60 hedgehogs which are sick and injured or weigh too little to survive the winter without help.

Wildlife Aid runs an adopt-a-hedgehog scheme. For details visit wildlifeaid.com.

Nursery called 'outstanding'

Ofsted inspectors were bowled over by the standards of care and the quality of the nursery education at the Leatherhead Trinity Children's Centre.

The inspectors graded it as outstanding for both the care of the children and babies and the education, the highest grades the centre could earn.

The inspectors visited the centre in Aperdele Road, Leatherhead, earlier in the year, but the report on their findings has only just been published.

It said: "As far as nursery education is concerned the quality of the teaching and learning is outstanding and children have excellent well developed social skills.

"Staff have immense dedication, total commitment and motivation to improve services for children and their families and support parents in the care and education of their children."

The centre opened in 2006 to offer day nursery care, a creche, family support services, support for local childminder and nursery education.

Thug attacks man on way home

An Ashtead man suffered a broken nose after a thug kicked him in the head in an unprovoked attack in Epsom.

The 37-year-old victim was on his way home from London on Tuesday, November 6, and had stopped in Epsom for a drink in The Slug and Lettuce pub in the Ebersham Centre.

He left the pub at 9.25pm and walked to a nearby Co-op in Station Approach, where he bought a bottle of wine. As he left the store at 9.35pm he was attacked.

The man was taken to Epsom General Hospital where he was also treated for swelling and bruising to his face and head and kept in overnight.

Detective Constable Sarah McCabe said: "I would like to speak to anyone who witnessed the incident or who has any information that will help us bring the offender to justice."

The suspect was a white man, 6ft, medium build, wearing dark clothing and carrying bags of shopping.

Anyone who witnessed the incident or has information should contact D Con McCabe at Epsom CID on 0845 125 2222 quoting A/07/27677.

Sharing spoils

Almost 20 charities shared the £3,500 raised at the combined charities Christmas fair at Leatherhead Theatre.

The fair was organized by the Leatherhead Rotary Club to give other charities a chance to boost their funds.

One of the charities to benefit was the Epsom, Ewell and District Cats Protection which raised £250.

No Fear for Xmas

Advertisement

Anxiety comes in many forms at Christmas from things like crowded buses and trains, parties, rowdy behaviour, stress and entertaining. If there's people having fun but you're in your own private nightmare wishing the festive time was over, then you are most probably one of the many people that experience anxiety at Christmas.

Although part of normal human experience, some people find moments of anxiety are a constant and dominating force that severely disrupts the quality of their lives, going far beyond occasional "nervousness" especially at Christmas.

The Surrey Institute of Clinical Hypnotherapy offers specialist skills in coping with anxiety, depression, and many other areas which affect quality of life. A spokesman for the Institute said: "It is important to understand that although we may often be aware of the event or situation that lead us to be anxious, knowing the cause of a problem does not mean that we can necessarily make the adjustments required to resolve the problem without professional help.

Some of us have anxieties that we do not associate with a particular experience. They may be the result of forgotten childhood events."

Conditions like agoraphobia, claustrophobia, social anxiety and OCD are just some of the issues that are dealt with at the Institute. Paul Howard, Institute Director, said "One of the first things we do with anxiety clients is to help them realise that anxiety is simply a normal response at inappropriate times. The brain is generating a response based on fictitious beliefs and stimuli. The key to resolving their anxiety is to correct these beliefs in the sub-conscious and thereby stopping the inappropriate response."

The Surrey Institute of Clinical Hypnotherapy, based in Wallington and Camberley, can help with weight control, phobias, smoking, alcohol, and many other issues. They can be contacted on 0800 849 7001 lines open Mon - Sat 8 am to 8 pm or their website on www.sich.co.uk.

Waitrose goes for Esso site

by HELEN CRANE

hcrane@london.newsquest.co.uk

Ashted is to get a major boost when a new Waitrose food store is built in the village.

The 12,000 sq ft store with seven homes above it is planned for the site of the former Esso petrol station in The Street.

Waitrose and development company Merlin Danesmount are to submit a planning application to Mole Valley District Council early in the New Year.

"We're still in the early stages of the planning process," said Merlin Danesmount.

Its director Martyn Guess said: "We are taking advice from the planning authority on how best to involve local councillors and members of the community. We feel that Waitrose is the right food retailer for Ashted and are currently working closely together to come up with the best scheme for this particular location, including car parking."

Planning: Impression of new Waitrose store in Ashted Village

Nigel Keen, director of development for Waitrose, said: "We believe Waitrose would act as a strong anchor for the Ashted area, attracting additional shoppers and benefiting local retailers."

The store will have dedicated fish, meat and cheese counters and will stock locally-produced food when available.

Estate agent Brian Elphick, chairman of Ashted Village Traders' Association, said: "The majority of traders are looking forward to boosting Ashted as a centre for shopping but there are one or two who have reservations about it. But most traders seem to think it will be a good thing for the village."

"It has been very frustrating having an empty site in the middle of the village for so long."

A public exhibition of the plans will be held early next year to give the public the chance to discuss the proposed store with a team of experts, including highways experts, and provide feedback on the scheme.

Productive: Art helps re-learn skills

Brain art prints

Clients at the Queen Elizabeth's Foundation Brain Injury Centre, Banstead, will be holding an art exhibition at All Saints Church Hall in Banstead High Street on Monday, December 3, between 1pm and 5.30pm.

The exhibition will include paintings, multi-media drawings, silk-screen and block prints, pottery, textiles and woodwork – all designed and created by the clients themselves.

Art plays an important part in the therapy offered by the centre to help clients restore lost function, re-learn skills and develop coping strategies.

Rogue workmen

"Grunters" are at work in Ashted, according to police.

Grunting is a term for people who offer to do work for a fixed price and then, once the work is complete, demand more money than the sum agreed. They then become aggressive and intimidate the victim into paying up.

In a recent example, police said a worker offered to do some work for £250 but demanded £500 once it was complete.

Neighbour specialist officer PC Jason Woods said: "If you need work doing, phone a recommended company, always get a written quote and never deal with cold callers."

Factory gloom

The Remploy factory in Leatherhead is certain to close unless an 11th hour miracle takes place.

Last week, Remploy, the organisation which provides work for disabled people, reprieved 15 of its factories destined for closure.

However, Leatherhead remains on its hit list in spite of campaigns to save it.

Proposals for the closure of 17 factories – originally 32 were to close – have been sent to Peter Hain, Secretary of State for Work and Pensions.

The Leatherhead factory in Ermyrn Way was opened in 1981.

Five years ago, 77 people worked at the site which now employs 43 people, of whom 40 are disabled. In the last financial year, it lost £799,000 or £19,975 for each disabled employee.

The long-term future of the factories which the company has reprieved depends on local agreements on issues including changes to working practices, transfer of work between factories and increases in sales.

Bob Warner, Remploy chief executive, said: "Our ambitious revised plan assumes that we will increase annual income by 40 per cent over the next five years. This is challenging because it has remained static over the last 10 years."

"The trade unions have suggested that we should adopt a plan for 60 per cent income growth in one year and a doubling over five years."

"We believe that such growth is unrealistic and, if it were not achieved, would put the whole future of Remploy at risk."

Recently, Councillor Tim Hall, the leader of the council, joined workers, MPs and trade unionists in a demonstration outside the factory.

A bit more fun in schools today

Visitors to Downsland Junior School in Leatherhead last week could have thought that they had travelled back to Victorian times.

Instead of their usual red and black blazers, the children were dressed in rather more unusual outfits.

For the whole day, boys and girls in year two were chambermaids and chimney sweeps and lords and ladies.

The children spent the day sat in rows, working at slate boards and being taught by schoolmistresses who were also dressed for the part.

"It was great fun dressing up for a day and finding out what life was like in Victorian times," said Kirsty Keep, head of the junior school. "But I'm glad times have changed and we all get to have a bit more fun in schools today."

£6m plan promises estate regeneration

A £6 million development in Hollymoor Lane heralds the next stage in ambitious plans to regenerate the Longmead estate in Epsom.

New homes, including some scarce four-bedroom family homes, new shops and a doctors' surgery are planned.

The existing down at heel shops are to be demolished and the Sefton Arms which has been empty for years, will also be bulldozed to make way for the new buildings.

While the new shops are built and fitted out, the estate convenience store will be relocated in a temporary building so it can continue serving residents.

The development is a major part in plans to give the whole estate a facelift. Rosebery Housing Association, which owns most of the homes on Longmead, is committed to bringing the houses up to modern day standards.

Working with Epsom and Ewell Borough Council and Surrey County Council it is to spend more than £1 million on a five-year plan of environmental improvements to clear neglected space, create safe areas for children to play and to introduce traffic calming measures. Parking restrictions will also be introduced to stop cars being parked on bends and corners.

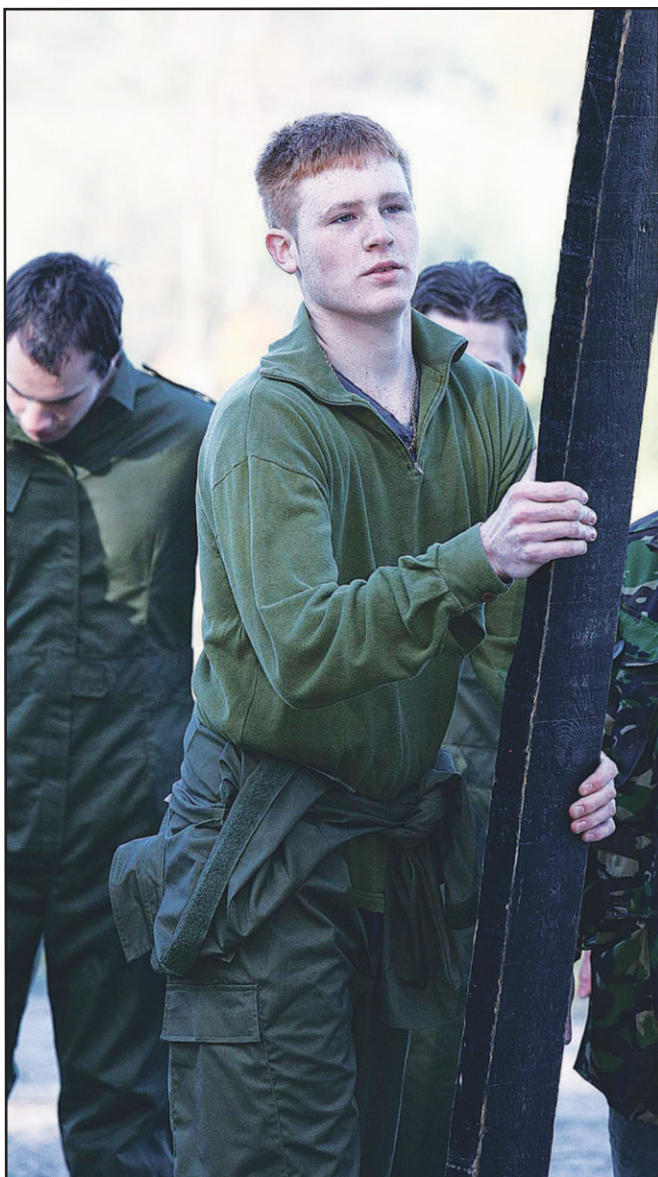

Alleyways and garage blocks will be better lit and areas around blocks of flats will be fenced off to make clear that they are private.

David Bayliss, development and asset management director for Rosebery Housing Association said: "This is a very positive thing for the estate. Some of the space isn't used as much as it could be and part of the regeneration is to look at this to find ways of creating community space. We want to improve layout and lighting and we want to get the right balance between keeping the estate looking open and dealing with security issues."

David Morgan, Court ward councillor said: "There is a lot going on, some of them are little things but together they can make a big difference to Longmead. One of the problems that is being tackled is parking which seems to be an issue."

Civvies get to play at being soldiers

Name, plank and serial number: Civilians on exercise with the Territorial Army

A band of 18 civvies left their home comforts behind last weekend, as they joined the Territorial Army (TA) for a recruitment weekend.

The course was held at Crowborough Training Camp in Sussex, to introduce candidates to squaddie life.

Taking part in the weekend was hazardous materials technician Chris Abbott, 19, from Epsom.

Chris said: "We really had a good weekend, met some good people and were given a real insight into the TA."

Course organiser and TA officer Captain Ted Pryke said, "The aim of the weekend was to invite candidates who had expressed an interest in joining the TA along to a residential weekend designed to give them a good idea of how the TA works and what the TA has to offer to a civilian, and how it can fit in and compliment their civilian career."

Guess who's coming to town: Father Christmas

Santa gets ready for Christmas

Father Christmas took time out from his busy schedule to visit the Ebbisham Centre in Epsom this week, to see where he will be spending the day on Saturday, December 1.

Santa will be in his grotto at the popular venue from 10am until 4pm – except when he pops out to feed the reindeer.

Entrance to the grotto is £3.50 per child, and organisers said each would be given a present to take home.

Visitors will also be able to enjoy a number of stalls selling festive crafts and gifts and there will be an opportunity for children to make Christmas gifts and decorations in the arts and crafts zone.

Outside there will be a festive fair-ground ride and live music.

Playground revamp

The children's playground in Nork has had a £70,000 revamp by Reigate and Banstead Borough Council.

The play area in Nork Park, Nork Way, features a multi-play unit with three slides, a cliff-hanger climber, climbing wall, aerial slide, overhead loop ladder, an adventure trail, multi-play toddler unit with two slides, see-saw, roundabout with disabled access and plenty of swings. The improvements also include new picnic tables and benches.

Poppy Appeal organiser: Cicily Tween

Poppy has great appeal

The Banstead and District branch of The Royal British Legion raised more than £27,000 this year, smashing its previous best.

Poppy Appeal organiser Cicily Tween took over the role earlier this year, replacing Brian Starey.

Last year the branch raised a record breaking £22,000 and eager to beat that total, Cicily set about organising collectors at Asda in Burgh Heath and Waitrose in Banstead.

Talking about the amount raised, Cicily remained modest over the success. She said: "I have had a lot of support from branch members and I am sure that people are generally much more aware of the need, particularly with the current conflicts in Afghanistan and Iraq."

'Tasteless and degrading' Ashley Ms take a malling

by HELEN CRANE

hcrane@london.newsquest.co.uk

The Ashley Centre, Epsom, is to turn into The Mall Ashley but the company that owns the shopping centre will have to think again about installing signs with large pink Ms over some of the entrances to the shopping complex.

Last week Epsom's planners gave partial permission to proposed changes to the signs at the entrances to the centre but refused permission for the Ms at the entrances next to listed buildings.

Although the planning report described the Ms as red, Councillor Alison Kelly, a member of the planning committee, said they were "fluorescent bright pink".

The Epsom Protection Society wrote to the planning committee objecting on the grounds that the signs could be mistaken for an advert for Big Mac hamburgers and were "tasteless and degrading".

The Ashley Centre was bought by a large company that owns more than 20 centres in the UK, all of which have "The Mall" in their names which is why the Epsom centre has been renamed.

Councillor Kelly said: "Training people to use the new name will be a bit of a challenge but we have no jurisdiction over it."

"We can't stop them changing the name if they want to. I Marks and Spencers wants to be known as Spencer and Marks there is nothing we can do about it. But we did discuss the signs one by one and we refused them where we felt they were near old traditional buildings and were not appropriate."

Katie makes the O'Grady on TV

Epsom's newest celebrity is being stopped in the street and congratulated on her starring television role last week.

Katie Cicconi, 85, took part in the Paul O'Grady show on Friday and settled back on his famous sofa to tell him about her volunteering work for Age Concern in Epsom and Ewell and foot care for the elderly.

"I am so lucky to live in Epsom," she told him. It meant that she can use the Age Concern foot service to keep her feet in good shape to ensure she can still get out and about to visit people.

And she flourished her own personal set of footcare instruments in front of the cameras and told Paul O'Grady how users of the service pay a modest sum for their own set of instruments which they take with them every time they visit the clinic.

On Monday she was stopped three times by people who recognised her from the television. Her appearance has also delighted Age Concern as Katie talked about visiting people too frail to leave their homes.

It comes as Age Concern Epsom and Ewell launched a campaign to attract more volunteers from across the age ranges to visit lonely people in their homes.

The organisation is looking for people from school age up to pensioners to join their team. Central Surrey Health is also delighted with Katie's television appearance and the publicity she gave to Epsom's foot service which was set up with advice, guidance and training from CSH. For information call 01372 732458 or 01372 732456.

Devastated: Carolina Starre amid the debris after a car crashed into her Ewell shop Deadlinepix EP17879

Shop wrecked by car

This is the devastating scene which awaited a Ewell shop owner on Sunday night after a car lost control and smashed through the front window.

Palm reader Carolina Starre, 40, could not foresee what was about to hit her Quest shop in Ewell Village. She was at home on Sunday when she received a phone call from a neighbour telling her what had happened.

She said: "From what I can understand some poor lad just lost control of the car. He must have thought it was a drive through."

"It is devastating, it's so sad. We've put our hearts and soul into the business just to see it destroyed. But the main thing is that the driver wasn't hurt."

by AARON MOON

Although Miss Starre is now having to spend long hours cleaning up, she praised her neighbours and local people for helping as much as they could.

She added: "The community has been great, offering support and making us cups of tea."

Carolina, who opened the business just five months ago, said the crash had destroyed not only the front of the shop but also everything inside. But she vowed that it was business as usual in the upstairs of the shop.

She said: "We're open for business upstairs where we have a clairvoyant who does readings, classes and workshops. And we've got life progression, tarot readings, angel workshops and palmistry. We will be able to continue that because we have a door at the back."

Although the shop is expected to be closed for a few weeks Carolina said they were going to try and get it open again by Christmas.

A police spokeswoman said police and the fire service attended to deal with minor injuries.

Scooter rider sorry about collision

A Tadworth man apologised to magistrates last week after driving a scooter along the pavement before ploughing into an oncoming car.

Horacio Teixeira, 20, of Pitwood Green, was riding his scooter in Banstead on May 2, driving it erratically along the pavement among a group of young people.

As a car drove towards the group Teixeira accelerated from the footpath on to the road straight into the front of the vehicle. He managed to get up and ride off, ignoring the driver's requests to stop and exchange details.

The following day Teixeira turned up at Epsom police station to hand himself in as well as admitting that he had no insurance and only a provisional license which had expired.

When asked by lead magistrate, Richard Selley what he had to say about the offence, Teixeira apologised.

He said: "I just bought it on that day and was just taking it to a mate's house and was going to stay there until I got papers and stuff."

He was disqualified from driving for six months, fined £60 and ordered to pay £220 compensation, £43 costs and £15 victim's surcharge.

Death trap: Green Wrythe Lane and Thornton Road

Deadlinepix SU17784

'More will die'

A Sutton councillor has warned that the busy junction where a man was killed a man last week will claim more lives in the future, unless changes are made.

Councillor Paddy Kane made the comments following the tragic death last week when a man was struck by a bus at the junction of Green Wrythe Lane and Thornton Road.

Just days earlier Coun Kane and his colleagues warned it was dangerous at a neighbourhood partnership meeting.

Scott Hall, 45, from Morden, was walking in Thornton Road just after 9pm on Monday November 12 when he was hit by a bus turning in from Green Wrythe Lane.

At a meeting just days be-

by AARON MOON

amoon@london.newsquest.co.uk

fore, councillors were told a crossing would not be possible because the traffic was too fast and the bus stops were too near.

But Coun Kane said the decision was unacceptable and claimed they had been trying to make changes to the road for years.

"Approximately four years ago residents presented a petition calling for measures to calm speeding traffic in Thornton Road," he said. "We fully agreed but our officers told us that Transport for London would not release necessary funding. They would only fund measures requested by the bus operators, which is how we ended up with the two large bus bays opposite each other, where this death occurred.

"It is ludicrous for Sutton officers and Transport for London to argue against a crossing because it's a fast road. That's precisely the reason we need one.

"Personally I believe the whole Green Wrythe Lane and Thornton Road junction is a death trap waiting for more deaths to happen. The only real solution will be traffic lights with pedestrian phases.

"Meanwhile I and my colleagues will press for moving the bus bays and a crossing."

No decisions will be made until January.

Export calypso steel to China

Chinese drums: Kiskadee steel band duo from Belmont played in Nanning

by KEVIN BARNES

kbarnes@london.newsquest.co.uk

The southern Chinese city of Nanning rarely throbs to the sounds of steel pans or calypso music. Most of the children there have never seen a foreign face.

Last month its inhabitants experienced a new sense of wonder when the Kiskadee steel band duo from Belmont filled the air with authentic Caribbean beats.

Jeanette Contant-Galitel-lo, 38, the partially-sighted lead singer, was invited to perform for the China Disabled People's Performing Arts Troupe.

The troupe, which has performed in more than 30 countries since being founded 20 years ago, has now invited Kiskadee to join them for a possible UK tour.

Despite having provided the backing vocals for Michael Jackson's Hurricane Katrina charity single, Jeanette was taken aback by the honour.

She said: "Can you believe the vice-president told me they'd like me to be part of their My Dream show with my steel drum? Now that would truly be a first."

"Picture this: music plays and about 60 young, deaf women become one. This person stands there until all of a sudden hundreds of arms fan out in perfect symmetry. The graceful dance continues with the most staggering beauty.

"It'd be wonderful if we could be instrumental in their bringing the show here. If it got to the West End it would be a sell out every night for at least a year, no exaggeration."

Jeanette, who had her right eye removed aged eight months, also gave a talk at the Beijing School for the Blind about her life as a visually-impaired musician. To hear Kiskadee perform, visit kmm.info.

Shoe in: Stanley Park Junior School's boxes

Shoe boxes to Belarus

Children at Stanley Park Junior School have been busy filling shoe boxes with goodies to send to poor children in Belarus this Christmas.

More than 140 boxes have been made as part of the Operation Christmas Child Appeal, nearly triple the expected number. These will be sent to the ex-Soviet state by the Church of the Good Shepherd in Carshalton.

Headteacher Graham Adams said: "The response has been tremendous and some families provided a complete box as their contribution."

Reverend Christopher Wheaton from the church was at a special school assembly on Monday when all of the gifts were gathered together, and said he was "flabbergasted" by families' generosity.

Jury fails to decide over B&B sex attack

by COURT REPORTER

newsdesk@suttonguardian.co.uk

A Rosehill man is facing a retrial after a jury failed to reach a verdict over an alleged sex attack at a council-run bed and breakfast.

Croydon Crown Court was told last week Hassan Ali tried to pull down a woman's jeans after pushing her against a wall at the home.

He was then said to have bit her breasts before she wrestled herself free and locked herself in her room.

The 19-year-old woman said she saw 18-year-old Ali "hanging around" inside the building late at night on July 17.

"I had seen him there before, but I hadn't spoken to him. I didn't know his name," she told the court, "He was leaning against something at the bottom of the stair-well. I went on walking up the stairs and realised he was behind me.

"I was just about to open my door with the key when he pushed me against the wall. I didn't have time to react, but I was shouting at him to get off me. He was biting my neck. I couldn't scream - I was in shock. He moved my arms above my head and pinned them with his right hand. He tried to pull my trousers down but he didn't succeed. We were pushing each other. I was holding his wrists."

Ali, of Rosehill, denied he was the person who had been in the corridor with the woman. He said he had been somewhere else at the time - but said he had had sex with the girl on an earlier date.

Ali, who had pleaded not guilty to a charge of sexual assault, will remain in custody until a later hearing.

Bailiff company stands by its complaints record

A bailiff company used by Sutton Council to collect council tax debts has denied any wrongdoing after residents complained about its methods.

CCS Enforcement Service Ltd launched an investigation after the Sutton Guardian revealed there had been several complaints about the company.

Citizens Advice Bureau staff said they had received complaints about the company - the only one used by the council from January to July this year - dating back several months.

The council also said it had had six complaints about the firm since April, but that most had been resolved.

A spokesman for CCS said the company took all allegations of malpractice "with the utmost seriousness".

It also said the number of complaints was not disproportionate as the council had passed 5,000 cases to it.

The spokesman added: "From our client's initial investigations it cannot identify any wrongdoing on its or its employees' part."

Asbestos dumped

Asbestos was illegally dumped in Wallington on Monday.

About 40 sheets of bounded asbestos, some in bags, along with broken pipes (pictured above) were dumped from a tipper truck on the corner of Hawthorn Avenue and Boundary Road at 2.30pm.

Anyone who saw a vehicle carrying silver bags in the area, or know of work that has been carried out recently to a roof containing asbestos, is urged to call the council on 020 8770 5070.

'PCT are out of step with footcare needs'

The borough's two MPs met with local NHS bosses last Friday on the heel of changes to chiropody and podiatry services in the borough.

MPs Paul Burstow and Tom Brake took the step after receiving complaints from constituents about the Primary Care Trust's (PCT) decision to stop people using the service for routine procedures like toe nail cutting.

Diabetic Bernard Waters, 78 from Cheam has used the service for 15 years and branded the new rules "disgusting".

"It's terrible," he said. "Bloody disgusting. Being a diabetic I can hardly see or feel my feet, and if I try to cut them myself I am sure I will make a worse wound. It is just ridiculous".

Sutton and Cheam MP Paul

by HEATHER DARLINGTON

hdarlington@london.newsquest.co.uk

Burstow said while excessive waiting times were unacceptable, rationing access to shorten the queue was not the answer.

He said: "There is a very real danger here that vulnerable older people will miss out on essential foot care.

"The risk is that people are left to suffer in pain, become housebound and disabled and at worst those with diabetes end up having to have amputations."

Carshalton and Wallington MP Mr Brake said good foot care made a huge difference to people's quality of life and that the move represented a false economy.

The MPs said they were told the PCT could not afford to invest in the podiatry service to bring it up to the standard recommended by Age Concern.

A spokesman from Sutton and Merton PCT said the move will reduce waiting times for significant foot health needs from five months to between two and four weeks.

He added: "The PCT is not making cost savings through these changes.

"The key objective is to be able to provide a better and safer service that is delivered in a more consistent way for local residents with significant foot health needs."

Fight taken to streets to save Malvern ward

by HEATHER DARLINGTON

hdarlington@london.newsquest.co.uk

A petition against the closure of an Alzheimer's ward in Sutton attracted more than 1,260 signatures in just three hours on Saturday.

Relatives and friends of dementia patients in Malvern ward in Sutton Hospital braved the cold to object to Sutton and Merton Primary Care Trust's (PCT) decision to earmark the ward for closure.

Jim Aberdein, whose mother is in Malvern, said he was touched by people's response.

"Sometimes people were literally queuing up to put their names against yet another cut in health services for a group of especially vulnerable patients," he said, "The support was overwhelming and a huge boost to our campaign."

Christine Mcleay, from Worcester Park, whose mother Annie is also in Malvern, said she would do anything to stop the ward closing.

"Malvern is definitely the best place for my mother," she added. "She responds well to the staff, who are fantastic. Now all this is threatened. The PCT talks about the savings that will be made by closing Malvern, but it appears they are not concerned as to where the 15 patients will go.

"My mum is a widow. She and my father paid taxes for the NHS all their lives – and this is the position she is in when she's at her most vulnerable.

"If hospital managers had some respect for the elderly, they wouldn't come up with ideas like this."

The petition was handed to the chief executive of Sutton Council by Councillor David Pickles on Monday.

A spokesman for Sutton and Merton Primary Care Trust (PCT) said it had decided to extend the consultation period until February 2008 and not move services from Malvern Ward from April 2008 as previously suggested.

Child porn convict wins early release

An Epsom paedophile who was last year jailed for four years for producing, downloading and distributing child pornography has been released early on appeal.

Gary Earney was caught with 1,231 obscene images on computers and DVDs through Operation Ore – a nationwide UK police operation to capture sex offenders who had viewed internet child pornography.

He admitted the offences after officers simultaneously raided his home in Hollymoor Lane and his business, the Scootermania Peugeot dealership in North Cheam.

Judge Roger Chapple sentenced Earney to four years for distributing, three years for making and two years for possessing, to run concurrently.

However, Earney took his case to the Court of Appeal earlier this year and on June 8 a judge ruled his sentence should be slashed by 30 months.

Because the time he spent in custody before the trial was also taken into consideration Earney was released immediately from Wandsworth Prison.

A spokeswoman for NSPCC slammed the decision. "Behind most indecent images is an abused child and these children will suffer for many years knowing that other offenders will pore over images of their abuse," she said.

"The number of pictures on the internet showing children being sexually abused is growing at a phenomenal rate. Anyone viewing these images fuels demand so more children get abused in the real world."

Earney was unavailable for comment.

Town hall reverses billing plan

The council has scrapped plans to do away with council tax payment books after pensioners said they were growing increasingly concerned about the move.

The town's Age Concern group said it had been flooded with calls from people concerned at the plan.

Last week, the Sutton Guardian revealed how residents were informed of the move in a letter outlining the benefits of payments from bank account direct debits.

At the bottom of the letter, a line read: "Please note that, with effect from April 2008, the council will no longer be issuing payment books so sign up now for the easier way to pay."

Marion Harper, director of Age Concern Sutton, said she was very worried about the changes and urged older people who use a payment book to contact the group.

She said: "I am very concerned as to how new plans will impact older people, particularly those who are housebound, vulnerable, isolated or have no bank account."

"If they pay by payment book, how will it affect them if they can only pay by direct debit or automated system based at the civic offices?"

A Carshalton resident, said: "I am happy to pay my tax monthly, but I object to being dictated to on how I should pay. There should be a choice. I like to be in control myself. It's the way I've always done it but I do feel that as a human being I have a right."

"Maybe I'm a grumpy old woman and maybe the youngsters accept it better than us oldies."

Opposition councillors welcomed the u-turn, saying the ruling group had failed to show any leadership over the issue.

A town hall spokeswoman said: "The council is very sorry that some residents have expressed concerns about payment books being discontinued from next April."

"We have written again to customers who do not pay their council tax by direct debit explaining that, for those residents who may not be able to pay by any other method, payment books will continue to be available to them."

Parking bay flytipper is sentenced

A man from Kingston who decided to dump his rubbish in Worcester Park has received a 12-month conditional discharge and a £500 fine.

Appearing at Sutton Magistrates' Court on November 8, Lee Johnston, 30, of New Malden, pleaded guilty to unlawfully depositing waste at a parking bay in Bal-moral Road on August 30.

The court heard how a passerby saw what happened and reported Johnston's vehicle registration to the police.

The dumped waste included a toilet and building rubble, left over from renovation work being done to Johnston's bathroom.

Colin Hall, deputy leader of Sutton Council, said: "We are very grateful to the resident who witnessed this illegal act and came forward with evidence so the offender was caught."

Flytipping carries a maximum fine of £50,000 or up to five years imprisonment.

□ To report flytipping offences, please call Sutton Council on 020 8770 5070.

MP calls for calm over child stalker incidents

The MP for Sutton and Cheam has said local children are more at risk from domestic abuse than falling victim to a stalker who has already invited three girls into a car.

Paul Burstow advised parents against driving children to the school gates while police hunt for a stranger seen prowling in the Sutton north and St Helier areas.

Mr Burstow spoke out as a governor at Westbourne Primary School, which has advised people to be vigilant after two of its nine-year-old boys were followed home earlier this month. He said changing behaviour because of the report in the

kbarnes@london.newsquest.co.uk

Sutton Guardian last week would be counter-productive, but welcomed increased police patrols as a measured response.

He said: "I know as a parent myself that an incident like this inevitably heightens concerns about the dangers posed by strangers.

"But there is some uncertainty over whether the interpretation placed on the events is correct. Parents should be reassured that everything is being done to protect and safeguard children.

"The sad fact is that children are more at risk of becoming victims of abuse, of one sort or another, from people they know."

Sutton police have refused to provide further details of the incidents for "operational reasons".

Yesterday a spokesman urged parents seeking advice to contact their Safer Neighbourhood Team. He also confirmed that no further incidents had been reported.

He said: "Police investigations are continuing and we are providing additional patrols in the areas. Anyone who witnesses anything suspicious should dial 999 immediately."

Giving Tree appeal: Shop owner Suzanne Fearn with Sutton Mayor Councillor Myfanwy Wallace

Deadline: SU17495

Something nice for the kids

The children of women who have suffered terrible instances of domestic violence will be better off this Christmas after the launch of the St Nicholas Centre's Giving Tree appeal.

Gifts can be left at the Something Nice jewellery boutique on the second floor of the centre and these will be handed over to refuge staff in time for December 25.

A list of gifts children would like to receive - costing £15 or less - can be viewed at the store.

Presents should then be returned to the shop where they will be expertly wrapped in time for the big day.

David Fearn, proprietor of Something Nice said: "For those children who wake up on Christmas Day under traumatic circumstances, receiving a present they wish for will help to bring some joy to such a sad situation. The donations really do make a difference and mean so much to the mothers who are taking refuge."

The Giving Tree initiative was launched by Sutton Mayor Councillor Myfanwy Wallace last week and is now in its eighth year.

Gang shot dad dead in raid, court hears

A Carshalton man was part of a gang who plotted to rob a father of two shot dead during a bungled raid, a court has heard.

Jay Poxon is alleged to have been part of a gang who raided a cannabis den in which Robert Lettin, 57, was blasted at point black range in front of his own son.

The Old Bailey was told Mr Lettin was killed with a rifle he kept at home to shoot pigeons.

He was left to bleed to death while the gang fled with £500 in cash and an ounce of cannabis, it is claimed.

The gang later celebrated the robbery by ordering pizza and watching the film Blood Diamond.

Speaking at the Old Bailey last week, co-defendant Daniel Howes,

by COURT REPORTER

newsdesk@suttonguardian.co.uk

24, told the court how Mr Poxon decided to rob Mr Lettin after discovering he was selling special "Thai weed".

Mr Howes told jurors Mr Poxon, of Waltham Way, concocted a plan to rob Mr Lettin and recruited 25-year-old Francis Boateng – a dealer known as KO or Knockout – Jerome Williams, 24, and Ayoub Barkan, who is on the run.

He claimed Mr Poxon acted as a lookout in Lichfield Road while he pointed out the flat to the others who burst in.

When Mr Boateng was left unsatisfied by the amount of cash and drugs he allegedly threatened Lettin with a knife before picking up the gun and shooting the victim, it is claimed.

Mr Boateng, Mr Williams and Mr Barkan then allegedly joined Poxon and fled in getaway cars driven by Jimmy Lewis and Idris Hadra.

Sean Minihan, defending, claimed Mr Howes was making Mr Poxon a scapegoat after coming up with the plan himself.

Mr Boateng denies murder and conspiracy to rob. Mr Hadra, Mr Williams and Mr Poxon deny conspiracy to rob and Mr Howes will be sentenced at the end of the trial.

The trial continues.

Electioneering: Lib Dem mayoral candidate Brian Paddick (centre) and supporters

Ex-policeman makes his stand

Former Sutton Grammar School pupil Brian Paddick is standing against Ken Livingstone to become the next mayor of London.

The Liberal Democrat candidate to stand against Mr Livingstone is a former deputy assistant Met commissioner who obtained notoriety for his "softly-softly" approach to cannabis in Brixton. He was also once Britain's highest ranking openly gay police officer.

He has promised less crime, better transport, cleaner air and fewer Londoners living in poverty if elected and local liberal democrat MPs Tom Brake and Paul Burstow congratulated Mr Paddick on his selection.

"Brian Paddick's local roots run deep in Sutton," Mr Burstow said. "His mother lives in Sutton and he went to school in Sutton."

"He has the knowledge and experience necessary to serve both London's suburbs and inner city. He is the only candidate who can beat Livingstone."

Mr Paddick, 49 retired from the police after 30 years in the force following a clash with Commissioner Sir Ian Blair over the handling of the Jean Charles de Menezes shooting in July 2005.

He is set to take on Labour Mr Livingstone and Conservative challenger Boris Johnson in the poll next year.

Sultan's great escape

by MARTIN McGRATH

newsdesk@suttonguardian.co.uk

A Sutton family had its feathers ruffled when their crafty pet parrot Sultan escaped the confines of his cage and flew away.

The bird made a daring bid for freedom on Tuesday, November 13, leaving his doting owners distraught.

The two-year-old African grey went missing for three days after flapping his way out of his cage at the Alhusaiawi home in Ridge Road.

Sultan's owner Huda Alhusaiawi is still trying to work out how the Houdini bird managed to open the cage's door and fly away.

Huda said he was given the bird

Who's a pretty boy then? Captive African grey parrots can live up to 60 years by Sultan at just after 1pm.

The family put up posters showing pictures of Sultan hoping that someone would find and return him.

The parrot was later spotted at the doctor's surgery near their house three days later. He was seen in the car park and collected by RSPCA staff, who checked him over to make sure he was in good condition.

Sultan was then returned to the family home, much to their relief.

Mrs Alhusaiawi's aupair Aaishah said the parrot was bought for the family's 11-year-old son, Rudha.

Huda told the Sutton Guardian: "We are very pleased to have him back with us."

Ex-mayor brands council road failures

A former mayor of Epsom and Ewell has taken matters into his own hands after Surrey County Council failed to replace or repair road signs in his area.

Brian Angus, an ex-councillor who was mayor between 2005 and 2006, made his own signs which he has put on damaged street furniture. He hopes that once other residents are aware of the failure signs, more will be able to be distributed beside other damaged items.

He said: "Residents will be able to place these on defects which they have reported to the county council or their county councillor but which they have failed to repair, maintain or enforce. As the county council is not very good at enforcing fly-posting, I suspect it won't be long until large numbers of these signs will be visible across the borough."

Mr Angus came up with the idea after reporting a damaged sign indicating a bend in the road.

He said: "What's the point of employing inspectors if there isn't the budget or the mechanism for restoring safety?"

Mr Angus also put out signs next to a broken traffic light. When he reported the fault to a traffic light engineer weeks ago, he was told it could not be fixed until a ladder had been found.

Surrey County Council was unable to comment.

HEATHER DARLINGTON spoke to people in Carshalton who have suffered racist abuse and attacks

A racist town?

Stepping over broken glass and thousands of pounds worth of ruined stock, the devastating effect of arson on a newsagents in Durand Close is plain to see.

But as the stench of the fire starts to lift, questions remain as to why someone would commit such a hate-filled crime against a family.

On November 6, the Patels' home and business was destroyed in what police are treating as a racially-motivated arson.

The arson attack followed the case of Deepshikha Sathyanarayanan, who in August said she was considering leaving Carshalton because racists were making her life a living hell.

Another Carshalton resident, who wished to remain anonymous, told the Sutton Guardian this week that ongoing racist abuse over the 17 years he and his family have lived in the borough had forced him to live a half existence.

"It has ranged from incidents while out on family walks, or when using public transport, to damage to our family home," he says.

"I once even had a car slow down to scream racist abuse at me while I crossed at a zebra crossing on Sutton Common Road.

"As a result, we as a family are very careful about how and when we travel and do our level best to maintain a low profile."

"It is a shame that in this day and age such incidents occur in the borough on a daily basis."

He also said that there had been a worrying increase in racist incidents lately.

But for one young Durand Close resident, who also wished to remain anonymous for fear of reprisals, problems in the area are not all down to racism.

She moved to the road eight years ago and admits that when she first arrived she was nervous about the rumours of racism.

"I'd heard stories about the estate being really bad," she said.

"I thought it would be like a stereotypical council estate, and it pretty much was, but people were friendlier than I expected.

"I don't think there is a problem with racism as such, but I'm sure people are being racist, as a lot of people are. It's horrible to think that racists can drive people out of a country that they may have come from to get away from other confrontation.

"We, as a country, shouldn't be doing this to people."

She admitted sometimes feeling intimidated, but was looking forward to

Mr Patel at his fire-damaged home

Deadlinepix SU17713

seeing changes. "Sometimes I do feel scared when walking home from work and I see a large group of children hanging around on my block stairs, acting as a barrier and not letting me past, or making comments to me," she said.

"At 19, it may seem silly, but children these days are capable of a lot more than we are led to believe. This isn't how Carshalton used to be."

She and others say drastic measures need to be taken, and only when the whole estate is redeveloped will problems subside.

Sutton Housing Partnership (SHP), which runs the estate, said it was saddened by recent events. Director of tenancy services, Mandy Doe, said staff worked in partnership with police safer neighbourhood teams and the community to help create a safe and secure environment.

A spokesman for SHP said the area was undergoing major regeneration, with an anticipated 900 new homes, more green spaces, a new community centre and shops planned.

The first stage is due to be considered by the council's planning committee in February 2008. If agreed, building work could start in late spring.

MP Tom Brake said: "We need to move full steam ahead with demolishing Durand Close.

"From the rubble should emerge homes that everyone will be proud to live in."

The police's borough commander Bob Reed rejected the idea there was a problem with racist incidents in Carshalton.

He said: "Bearing in mind we have a well integrated ethnic-minority population in Sutton, the small number of reported incidents suggest relatively low levels of crimes of this type.

"Comparatively, race and hate crimes are low in Sutton, but we will maintain a high level of intolerance towards criminals who perpetrate such despicable crimes."

The lead detective investigating the Patels' arson said police were taking the attack very seriously.

Detective Inspector Andy Trevan said: "Time and time again I have been involved in investigations where even the tiniest piece of information received from the community has made all the difference to a police investigation. We are sure that someone knows who started this fire - and we want the community to tell us what they know about this fire or what they saw at the time of this fire".

Anyone with information can call Sutton CID on 020 8649 0777 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

❑ Anyone experiencing racial harassment or antisocial behaviour can call freephone 0800 195 5552.

seen punching him to the floor and stamping on his head.

Although he managed to get to his feet, Elvin pushed him out of the flat and began shouting he was “gonna finish off Luke” along with a friend Caine Hallett as they attacked him in the communal stairwell. He was spotted kicking Luke’s lifeless body shouting: “You spat in my sister’s face!”

As he lay there dying on the concrete, a fellow party guest came and callously filmed his last moments. He later described at the Old Bailey what he had seen.

He said: "Luke was on the floor outside, face down, naked. As I took a close look I could see there was blood."

“His body was red. His torso and his head was red. You could see blotches of red where he had been stamped on.”

Both men were found guilty of murder with Elvin sentenced to at least 12 years before he can be considered for parole and Hallett receiving five years for manslaughter.

Speaking for the first time this week Vivianne, 53, said that along with Luke's life being taken, her own life had also been destroyed. The mother of two daughters aged 24 and 21 had been in a relationship with Luke for more than four years and said that his murder left her life in ruins.

She said: "I can't cope anymore. Before this happened I was working as a nurse at Epsom hospital but I moved away because of the murder. I can't work anymore. I can't go on. My life is over. He's dead."

Investigations: Murder always has far reaching consequences beyond the police's involvement

Deadlinepix SU10689

One organisation that is equipped to help people like Vivianne is a charity called Support After Murder or Manslaughter (SAMM) whose main role is to offer emotional support to people bereaved through murder or manslaughter.

Rose Dixon, a national training and development officer at SAMM, said that the role they offer can often stretch out over a number of years.

"SAMM is separate to Victim's Support," she said, "but we work alongside them as well as working very closely with the police and the Home Office. All of the people that work for us have lost people through homicide. The Victim's Support people have had training but often they haven't experienced what they are helping people with.

"We give emotional support through either one-to-one visits, over the telephone or through group support.

"When the case goes to trial, they need a lot of support and then after if there's an appeal they need a lot of help. And then 12 years down the line when the person responsible for the murder is released, the families often go back to day one."

The charity receives about 200 new referrals a year, and currently has 1,800 families on its database who SAMM continue to offer support and help to. However, Rose explains that the number of people affected by murder or manslaughter is far greater than this figure.

"There are a lot more we offer support to because quite a lot of people don't want to go on the database because they're scared that either the defendant will find them or the media will get their names."

There are also a huge number of people who do not accept any help from support services such as SAMM or Victim's Support, but Rose says she always recommends they get some sort of help or support.

Unfortunately, although Vivianne wanted to tell her story, she felt unable to continue talking about her experiences but hoped that other people who have lost relatives or friends through murder or manslaughter would be able to get the support they needed from charities such as SAMM.

And although Vivianne's life has been completely destroyed, she tries to take each day at a time without any support, knowing that sometime next year one of Luke's killers could be walking free.

Green stars are in ascendency

Sutton's green stars shone brightly on Friday with two finalists crowned winners at the second Green Guardian awards.

Beddington Park Primary School in Derry Road was named green primary school of the year at Epsom Racecourse on Friday night, while Cheam's Aazim Ihsan was named young environmentalist of the year.

by HEATHER DARLINGTON
hdarlington@london.newsquest.co.uk

Other finalists included Tracy Gregory in the Green Household category, Green Business One2See signs, Green Group Sutton Nature Conservation Volunteers, Green Secondary School Wandle Valley School and Green Champion, Jane Durney.

Fourteen-year-old Aazim was named young environmentalist after campaigning to make people more aware of climate change.

During the past 12 months he has toured several schools, including one in Tokyo, and has even met Arnold Schwarzenegger and Tony Blair to discuss environmental matters.

He said: "I was really, really, really shocked. There's a lot of people out there who deserved this award as well and I was just really happy I received it." Aazim's aunt, Tahmina Bashir said it was great to see his hard work realised.

She added: "We have always been proud of everything that he does and as a family we have always been there to support him."

Headteacher Toby Cooke said since joining the school he has been extremely impressed at how seriously the pupils take environmental work, and said winning was wonderful.

"I am absolutely delighted for the whole school, from the children to the staff and the governors," he added.

"The award is a wonderful recognition of the effort and work being done to promote ecological issues and the environment within the school."

Polar theme caps gala awards night

The Queen's Stand at Epsom Racecourse was transformed into an ice palace for the Green Guardian Awards regional final on Friday, November 16.

The gala evening brought together 250 environmentalists, businessmen, council staff and politicians to celebrate the achievements of south-west London's greenest individuals and organisations.

This year's ice theme was brought to life by an ice maiden who welcomed guests and miniature icebergs melting in the centre of each table, a poignant reminder of the devastating effect global warming is having on the polar icecaps.

After a drinks reception where guests were entertained by a harpist, the evening kicked off with a dance performance from students at Croydon College, wearing costumes made from recycled materials, who dramatically evoked the effect climate change is having on the four seasons.

The host for the evening,

by HEATHER DARLINGTON

hdarlington@london.newsquest.co.uk

Sean Duggan, group editor of the South London Guardian newspaper series, explained that the 40 regional finalists were selected at the borough awards from over 354 entries.

He said: "The efforts that everyone in this room is making to reduce the carbon dioxide released by businesses, schools, councils and homes across south-west London are incredibly important.

"It was particularly pleasing to see, that in addition to hundreds of new entries, there were many from those who had taken part in last year's awards.

"And it was fantastic to read, time and again, that the Green Guardian Awards had given them a real boost and inspired them to go on and do even more.

"That is the purpose of these awards."

This year's guest speaker was green queen and presenter of BBC2 series No Waste Like Home, Penney Polzer, who talked about the vital importance of conserving water.

Having been reduced to tears at last year's event, she said she hoped to hold it together this year.

"It's hard not to be emotional when you are inspired by so many people," she said. "Everybody tonight is a winner but the greatest winner of all is our dear and beautiful planet."

Other speakers included Jon Kimber, head of Energy Efficiency at British Gas - which is headline sponsor of this year's awards, and Diana Sterck, chief executive of southlondon.biz.

This was the second year of these unique awards which are run in partnership between the South London Guardian newspaper series, Croydon, Kingston, Merton, Sutton and Richmond Councils and sponsor partners.

The white van man mystery

These whinging residents really need to get out more. GET A LIFE!

Big Ron, Croydon

I've met the white van man and I have ordered a Christmas tree from him. He hasn't been to collect them from his supplier yet – it's too early. He has assured me that it will arrive. He is very pleasant and there is nothing untoward about him. I'm not sure what all the fuss is about.

Nancy Drew, Kew

This is the funniest story I have ever heard, or seen make the news in any context. If I am to believe what I am reading... someone has parked on a road.....and moves it along a bit at night. Well that certainly is strange – but worth reading about? I'm not so sure!

Cee, Epsom

I miss the fun, intrigue, mystery and sense of community that the white van brought to Salisbury Road. You put us on the map. Come back Mr White Van. Good luck with tree sales 'Sport'

Shay, Worcester Park

Could someone explain why a van parked in a road is a mystery? Or worthy of a news story? Out my window now there is a silver Micra parked! Quick everyone, let's all huddle round and see who owns it! Why is it there? Please someone help. I can't sleep at night not knowing who owns the silver Micra! ('Stuck up' comes to mind when I read this story)

Michelle, Cheam

I hear they're filming a feature movie in Salisbury Road. It's called the Great Vansky. It's the story of how a humble white van falls for a cadillac during the Jazz Age. The van passes itself off as a Buick, until its past catches up with it with deleterious effects. Eventually it is left to rust in a swimming pool. All this, I am told, symbolises the corruption of the American Dream.

People and pets have to suffer this fireworks hell

Oh how I wish it would rain and never stop. I have just lived through more than a week of hell and I know that I am not alone.

Us dog owners suffer from early November until late January – most animals hate fireworks and it is not just our pet dogs that we have to tranquillise for days on end, but what about animals in fields and wild creatures who have no one to protect them from the terror?

Think for a moment what life would be like without any animals. They have as much right in this world as us humans.

May I also add that those wretched fireworks are an infringement on people's privacy.

If I were to let my dog wander uninvited on to people's property there would be an outcry. Why then do we have to tolerate this nuisance every weekend?

If fireworks were restricted to November 5 and New Year's Eve, I along with many other animal lovers would not complain.

None of the recognised animal charities like the idea that animals are suffering because of people's selfishness. There is supposed to be a restriction on the volume of noise and also that they are not used after 11pm. All fireworks should be at council organised displays and not allowed to be sold without a licence. Not all neighbours enjoy them!

Ten out of 10 for NHS treatment

On November 12 my two-and-a-half-year old son suffered an allergic reaction with facial swelling. An ambulance arrived from Redhill within minutes. After a quick journey to Epsom General we waited only five minutes for an accurate diagnosis and treatment.

I was given (with my son) a clean cubicle with a box of toys for him to play with. After careful monitoring he was sent home. Ten out of 10 for the service provided by the NHS.

Big thanks to all who gave to appeal

The Chairman of the Ewell Branch of the Royal British Legion wishes to thank all those who contributed so generously to the 2007 Poppy Appeal. So far, our willing team of money counters has bagged up £15,028.

But, the good news does not stop there. The contents of a number of poppy collection boxes have yet to be counted. When these are included, it is likely that the final figure will be at least £16,000.

Setting records for the Poppy Appeal is not a new experience for the Ewell branch of the Royal British Legion. Even so, such a total will far exceed all past performances.

That this has been achieved is entirely due not only to the generosity of the public but also that wonderful team of road collectors, the management of Bourne Hall and Homebase.

Not forgetting the host of local shopkeepers, schools, churches, clubs, Air Training Corps etc etc.

It is to all these and more, that I wish to express, on behalf of the Royal British Legion, my very grateful thanks and beyond them, those injured servicemen and women who may need to call upon the legion for help and assistance.

A teacher writes... on a glowing Ofsted report

As a teacher, it is great to hear of glowing Ofsted reports and excellent education in Sutton: such learning opportunities are no more than our young people deserve.

However, while we need to sing the praises of these good schools, we should also reserve a sad lament for those children not entitled to attend such institutions, and, acknowledge that the pressure for places at good schools here is exacerbated by the huge proportion of pupils who are from out of the borough.

Local politicians should feel uneasy that, according to Gordon Brown's proposed standards, two of our community schools should be closed down.

In 2006, Stanley Park and Carshalton Boys enabled fewer than 20 per cent of their year nine students to achieve five GCSEs at grade C or above, compared with the national average of 41 per cent.

Carshalton Girls also fell woefully below this figure, and neither school offers significant "value added" to their students' education.

Small wonder there is such a desperate clamour for the places at those community schools performing above the national average.

However, short of building a home next door to a preferred school, parents have no control over this matter.

As a parent of children withdrawn from our local school, I have experienced the unfairness of Sutton's educational provision at first hand.

Is it really a surprise when selective schools perform well? I don't think so, and yet councillors queue up to heap praise on the local education authority.

So, yes indeed, hooray for excellent schools, where the facilities are wonderful, the atmosphere studious, the curriculum broad and engaging and where students move onwards and upwards.

But don't let these undeniable successes mask the fact that Sutton's schooling continues to be extremely polarised, ensuring that many children in poorer parts of the borough remain doubly disadvantaged.

Deserving of respect

I am furious that people complained about a cannon being fired on Remembrance Sunday (Remembrance Day Cannon Fired Again, Sutton Guardian, November 15)

Is that all the respect the lives of young men and women is worth that someone complains about the cannon being fired twice?

It is not as if it is an unexpected noise like the constant barrage of fireworks exploding over the past few weekends – you know it is going to be fired at 11am and again at 11.02 am. Not a lot to ask for the ultimate sacrifice.

Fighting for Rosehill's future: Area is run down – but not forgotten

Rosehill is run down but this area is not forgotten by any means.

St Helier's councillors and the new Rosehill Traders' Association – with the strong support of Sutton's Chamber of Commerce and the local police – are putting a huge amount of time and energy into fighting for Rosehill's future.

New trees have been planted and the railings repainted as first steps towards making Rosehill a more attractive place to shop.

The council and the traders are also working on a shopfront replacement scheme to improve the look of the shops, and enhanced parking to make it easier for people to stop and shop at

More long term plans may include planting at Rosehill roundabout, hanging baskets outside the shops and Christmas lights.

It is not the intention of Rosehill to compete with Sutton High Street, but the 70 shops there provide a vital service to the local community, including St Helier Hospital staff and visitors.

The Co-op, Barclays, HSBC, Superdrug and Woolworths all have branches at Rosehill, so those big companies obviously have confidence in Rosehill.

There are many independent traders offering a range of products and services and employing 200 to 250 people.

Nearly all the vacant shops have now been occupied.

Much credit must go to the local Safer Neighbourhood Team who have made the area far more secure than it has been for many years.

Rosehill is now a no drinking zone, and has its own police community police support officer, who has reduced problems significantly.

On the issue of the new footpath in Rosehill Recreation Ground, this is important because it will connect people living on one side of the A217 Reigate Avenue with the new community centre, next to the tennis courts.

Much better way to pay

Hooray for the person who wrote in about the council's decision to scrap council tax payment books.

Well done. I have a special needs son. How does the council expect these people to have direct debit accounts when they are trying to make it on their own out there, just about managing to live?

If the council needs to stop the payment books could they state the times, and days of payment so we all know where we stand. There must be some way to pay without direct debit.

A new muse

Ever since folk singer Nick Drake started selling records by the wheelbarrow-ful – 30 years after he died, having been selling records by the thimbleful – Keith James has been in demand.

His Songs of Nick Drake toured the UK for five years, clocking up more than 300 gigs, including several in Clapham and Epsom. But now he has a new muse: Spanish poet and dramatist Federico Garcia Lorca. James performs his poems at Epsom Playhouse this week.

And, in addition to Lorca being an extraordinary young talent who died prematurely, James believes other parallels can be drawn between Lorca and Drake: “Lorca was probably extremely self-centred,” he says “and I would say the same about Drake, whose musical output was beautiful though he was self-absorbed.

“There is also a tremendous fragility to them, which one finds in all truly artistic people. For example, John Lennon had it, but not Paul McCartney, who is a bit of an engine boy.

“To have Lorca as a devoted, unconditional friend would have been difficult but he would have been good company. I can see some of myself in him, which is probably why I gravitated towards him.”

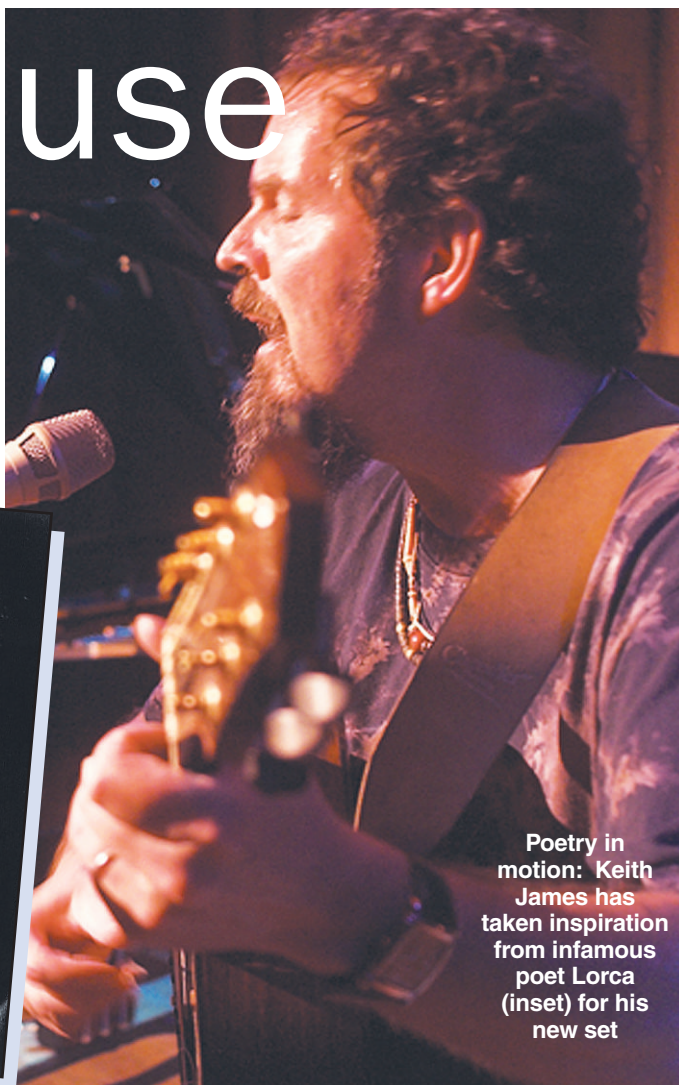

Perhaps Lorca's best-known literature is his Gypsy Ballads poetry collection and his rural trilogy plays, which include Blood Wedding. A fierce opponent of the General Franco regime, Lorca was shot dead in his hometown, Granada, at the start of the Spanish Civil War in 1936. The subsequent ban on his work lasted nearly 20 years.

Continuing his assessment of Lorca, James describes him as “fussy”, “effeminate”, and “genius”, a comment which leads him to compare Lorca to Dylan: “Like Dylan, not all his work is good, his ego outgrew his artistic output, but there are astonishing moments of genius.

“Lorca was writing in a geographic and social vacuum, with very little influence from other people and no thought for commercial reasoning. He was writing purely for himself

MUSIC: Keith James, Epsom Playhouse

Paul Fleckney

Poetry in motion: Keith James has taken inspiration from infamous poet Lorca (inset) for his new set and it comes across as unbelievably pure and passionate. It is the kind of writing you don't see in the contemporary world and it captivated me, so I set myself the challenge of putting it to music.”

That challenge was set two years ago, when James discovered Lorca through another folk singer – Leonard Cohen – who had covered Lorca's Little Viennese Waltz on his 1988 album I'm Your Man.

And making Lorca's poetry into folk and classical music is not easy, says James: “I have had to wrestle with the poems quite a lot. There are only two – Diamond and Nocturne – which jumped off the page and turned into a song. Mostly I have had to turn verses into choruses or slightly reinterpret the words so they meter in a pleasing way.”

The Magic of Mr Mozart

Following their successful tour of The Daughter of the Regiment, highly-acclaimed Swansea City Opera (SCO) present Mozart's final masterpiece, The Magic Flute as the latest addition to their diverse and flourishing repertoire.

The Magic Flute comes to the Epsom Playhouse next week for SCO's eagerly-awaited annual visit.

Light triumphs over darkness as the audience follows Mozart's young lovers on their perilous journey through a mysterious land of sorcerers and magic with the help of a cosmic character who dresses as a bird (Papageno).

This enchanting, spell-binding opera, filled with ritual and symbolism, is a playful but profound look at man's search for love and his struggle to attain wisdom and virtue.

From the virtuosic arias of the Queen of the Night to the

There is a young chap called Adam Doyle who RockStock fans will have seen scuttling on stage, dodging flailing basses and arcs of sweat to pick up fallen mic stands.

As we look back at RockStock's achievements on this, its fourth birthday, you can take Adam as a perfect example of the RockStock attitude – to give people a chance.

In action, this means giving talented local bands a stage, giving youngsters the opportunity to indulge their love for gigs (and to demonstrate that not all kids turn into Reggie Kray the moment they step out the door) and even giving a leg up to those desperate to make it in the music industry – such as Adam.

Gary Milsom, from Cheam, is the main man behind RockStock: “Andy got in touch with us from his college where he was studying music technology and he wanted work experience. He had gone to a lot of the record companies up in London but didn’t get any replies. He started helping out and is invaluable to the team.

“He manages change overs between bands, he’s the roadie who leaps onstage if the drumkit falls over. He is such a well-motivated lad, he will go on in the industry and if he goes to university next year, he’ll be miles ahead of everybody else.”

Sadly, RockStock can only accommodate so many Adams, but on the wider scale, RockStock has been an undeniable success story.

Since its first gig at the Woodstock pub in Stonecot Hill,

FEATURE: RockStock, Fourth Anniversary

Paul Fleckney

about 400 bands have been handed a stage and an audience, including the brightest local talents young (Xenon, Chop, Chop: Bear Touch?, Forever Wednesday) and older (The Blow Ups, Superkicks, Gallows Humour).

RockStock favourites Dead Wednesday even travel up from Exeter to play the Charles Cryer Theatre, and regulars Civillian toured America this year with Ill Nino and played Download.

Gary recalls that it didn’t take long for RockStock to gain momentum: “When the first gig took place, it wasn’t terribly busy, but the second one was jam-packed, a sell-out. It was fantastic, word just got out.

“Before that there was seemingly nowhere for local rock bands to play – it was a closed shop. One or two pubs had gigs now and again, but it was always the same bands.”

Since then, RockStock has become focused on young bands (although not exclusively), after Gary and co-founder Dave Clarke identified a “gaping hole” where a stage should be for bands who were too young to play in pubs.

Now RockStock is a fixture for many local kids with a passion for music, with the fortnightly Charles Cryer events often selling out.

“Some kids ask which bands are playing on the night,” adds Gary. “They don’t necessarily come because of one band, they come because its RockStock and they know they’ll have a great time.

“The best thing for me is when you see kids who were coming years ago, and went and picked up a guitar. Now they are in bands, playing on the RockStock stage.”

Bands as far away as Scandinavia and Germany have tried to jump the queue for the stage, but Gary’s first priority is with groups from the local area, and with that in mind, RockStock may be teaming up with other music companies to take rock nights deeper into Surrey.

Run on a shoestring (potential sponsors, take note...), passion and hard bloomin’ work, RockStock has very quickly made itself a local institution that must be treasured. Happy birthday RockStock!

● This Friday’s fourth anniversary gig at the Charles Cryer Theatre features Flaming Monkeys, Robotic Demolition, Prediction, The Awakened, Room 253 and The Men From UnCool.

A collaborative exhibition of work by the cream of local artists begins at the Honeywood Heritage Centre in Carshalton this weekend.

Works by Don Davy, Robert Hay, Abel Kesteven, Mark Shakespeare, and John Stillman are shown collectively under the name Art at Christmas, and will remain in the public eye until January.

A graduate of (the now defunct) Sutton Arts School and the Royal College of Art, Don Davy returns after his one-man show a decade ago, with a delightful collection of oils and watercolours on native and exotic animals. Fetcham-based Don says: “I have had a fascination with wildlife all my life – the look of fur and feathers and how you can reproduce that, and there is a cuddly thing about it!

“I use drawings and photographs but mainly I go to a zoo and study the animal. The best one I have found for that is Paradise Wildlife Park.”

Meanwhile, Robert Hay almost exclusively paints landscapes and seascapes in acrylic and Abel Kesteven’s images are primarily about colour, light and movement. Abel also produces sculptures and mono-prints which depict very “robust” human forms.

Mark Shakespeare is more a multi-media artist, depicting local scenes, as well as holidays in France and Cornwall. John paints landscapes and scenes of Surrey as well as marine subjects concentrating on light and atmosphere.

St. Nicholas walks the walk

Bradley Taylor, top fashion adviser to the stars gives his overwhelming approval for red hot fashions in the St. Nicholas Centre this Christmas.

Whether shoppers were looking for military styles, monochrome or metallics, the St Nicholas Centre had it all on show at its spectacular catwalk shows at the weekend.

All the latest style advice, trends and tips from TV Stylist, Bradley Taylor could be found at the Passion for Fashion Catwalk Show on Sunday 18th November.

Bradley said "I had a fab time at the St. Nicholas Centre, there was loads to choose from and I hope that everyone there saw and managed to find them self a new look from the catwalk. Don't be scared to throw in some of the great colours on offer in the stores at the St Nicholas Centre this season. Hot reds and deep purples will keep you looking warm and vibrant this winter so spice up your wardrobe"

Bradley's top tips for key trends this season are:

Black and White:

Monochrome is once again in all over the place and great for the Christmas party season. Always a winner to give you James Bond style glam.

Reds:

Lots of hot reds in the shops, so brighten up your gray colours with this fab winter colour.

Metallics:

For the hardened fashionista among you metallics were seen on catwalks the world over and are the biggest trend to hit the highstreet! For the more daring shopper but a great look if worn well.

Purple:

My favourite colour this season... the more the better and it looks amazing with black.

Bradley began his career at Harvey Nichols, where he became the youngest personal shopper the company has ever had. After two years he left to work for luxury fashion designer, Alexander McQueen and in turn was poached to work with fashion mogul Vivienne Westwood. Bradley flourished at Westwood and in 2003, with his growing experience and contacts, left to open his own luxury personal shopping and styling company "Bradley Taylor Styling".

Producing and hosting fashion events worldwide, Bradley was a 2005 UK Male Style Icon Nominee and winner of Creative 2006. With a TV series, radio show and monthly magazine column, Bradley has developed an intuitive knowledge of style and the fashion world.

Now with over eight years experience and with a host of private clients such as Liv Tyler, Catherine Zeta Jones, footballers' wives and soapstars, he is fast becoming the country's top fashion adviser.

A world of flavour

I had heard good things about Jimmy Spice's, a welcome addition to Epsom's restaurant scene, so I decided to see what all the fuss was about.

I soon found the restaurant in Derby Square, off Waterloo Road, has something to suit everyone. From Chinese to Thai and Indian cuisine, the food was delicious, the service was good and the experience was memorable.

The restaurant's contemporary setting mixed with the aroma of so many different cuisines created a brilliant atmosphere for a night out!

It's difficult to give enough examples of the choice on for food to be cooked to order on the grill.

I sampled many dishes from the menu but didn't feel guilty because plenty featured fresh vegetables. There is also a huge choice of salads on offer and all the food is free of monosodium glutamate.

The meals are cooked in front of you which makes for an unusual and entertaining buffet experience. It is no surprise that this chain of restaurants has been so successful. Epsom is its fourth venture.

Jimmy Spice's Epsom offers amazing value for money. Its Christmas lunch buffet is only £12.95, and the evening buffet £19.95. So if you are looking for a night out with a difference head for Jimmy Spice's.

Stuffed roast salmon

Serves 6 and takes 50 minutes to prepare and 50 minutes to cook.

Ingredients

2 salmon fillets weighing 1.5kg (3lbs)
Bunch of watercress
300 g prawns, cooked
250 g cream cheese
1 medium leek
25 g tarragon
Sea salt
Freshly ground black pepper
Drizzle of olive oil
2 limes

Method

Heat oven to 190C, 375F, Gas 5. Pat any excess water from the two fillets with kitchen paper and drain the prawns.

Mix the cream cheese until soft. Finely chop the leek, remove tarragon from the stalks and chop. Add these items to the cream cheese as well as the prawns and the seasoning and then mix well. Place one fish fillet skin side down and top evenly with the prawn and cream cheese mix. Place the other fillet skin side up on top and tie with kitchen string.

Place on a large, lightly oiled baking tray, cook in the oven for 20 minutes. Reduce the heat to 160C, 325F, Gas 3 and cook for the remaining 15-20 minutes.

Remove and carefully transfer onto a serving dish, cut the string and remove. Add the lime wedges

Not everyone wants turkey, so we offer a few alternatives and sprigs of watercress.

Serving suggestion: Place the fish on a nest of steamed green beans or sliced, buttered leeks.

Smoked Cod Pasta Bake

Pasta bake is a very popular alternative to a meat dish. This recipe serves 4.

Ingredients

300g egg garganelli pasta
400g traditionally smoked cod (undyed)
150g trimmed sugar snap peas
350g jar Italian Arrabbiata pasta sauce
125g mozzarella

Method

Preheat the oven to 200 C, Gas 6. Meanwhile, add the egg garganelli pasta to a large pan of boiling water and cook according to pack instructions. Drain thoroughly and return to the pan. Stir in the cod which has been cut into 3-4cm cubes, and the pasta sauce. Stir in the trimmed sugar snap peas and transfer to an ovenproof dish. Top with 125g mozzarella, sliced, and bake for 25-30 minutes or until the cod is just cooked. Recipe and ingredients at Waitrose.

Mediterranean Stuffed Roast Beef

This dish serves four and requires

15 minutes of preparation, plus marinating time and 90 minutes of cooking time.

Ingredients

75 g white bread
50 g pine kernels
50 g sunblushed tomatoes, roughly chopped
Large handful parsley, roughly chopped
Zest of half a lemon
1 tbsp green tapenade
1 egg, beaten
1.2 kg boneless rib of beef

Method

Use a food processor to turn the bread into fine breadcrumbs, then mix together in a bowl with the pine kernels, tomatoes, parsley, lemon zest, tapenade and the egg. Season to taste.

Place the joint of beef skin side down on a chopping board. Untie string, unfold and using a sharp knife cut horizontally into the meat, until almost halfway, then open it up, so it forms a long strip. Spread stuffing along its length, re-roll beef and tie with string. Cover, chill overnight, or for several hours. Preheat the oven to 180C, 350F, Gas 4. When the joint is at room temperature, put in a roasting tin and cook to your preference. One hour for rare, 1 hour 20 minutes for medium or 1 hour 30 minutes for well done.

Crostini

26 Ewell Road Cheam

020 8642 0022

At Taste Of Italy on your Doorstep

Have you ever thought of travelling to Italy for Christmas?

Why would you want to when you have a small piece of the fabulous country right in the heart of Cheam Village, writes Carol Williams.

A wonderful restaurant called Crostini has delicious food and wine in a menu that combines fresh ingredients - to create authentic Italian dishes that you'll enjoy sharing with your family & friends. Dishes enjoyed for generations in villages throughout Italy inspire the menu, giving Crostini its authentic Italian flare.

Angelo & Tracy Daniele love any reason to celebrate and can help you plan your next dining event at Crostini. They have a new menu especially designed for the Christmas season for those of you who want to enjoy a different dining experience. Homemade minestrone soup, chicken topped with ham and cheese cooked in a tomato and wine sauce served with fresh vegetables or choose Tagliatelle with ricotta cheese, or fillet of sole cooked in tomato, cream and prawn sauce also served with fresh vegetables are just some of the delicious dishes that can be found on the extensive menu.

Whether you have come for lunch or dinner, Crostini will feed you well and get you back to your day or evening satisfied.

You will find a dining experience unlike any other in Cheam, with rich pasta dishes overflowing with flavour. Knowledgeable and friendly staff will help you choose a wine that complements your entrée perfectly. The chef's personal flair for culinary artistry and his uncompromising good taste are consistently evident in each creation.

It is highly satisfying for them to be able to give the people of this area a friendly, inviting place to dine where they can count on exceptional food that is consistently well prepared.

Dine with family and friends while enjoying the Italian traditions of food, friendship and hospitality. The Christmas menu is priced from £16.50 to £22.50 depending on when you book.

Why Choose Memory Foam?

If you wake every morning with a crick in your neck or stiff back, chances are your mattress is either too soft or too hard. Try a Memory Foam mattress which provides a sleep surface that conforms to your body weight and shape.

Is Memory Foam the Best Support for those Aching Joints?

When you take into consideration the amount of pressure you place on your shoulder and hips if you are a side sleeper, neck if you are a stomach sleeper or lower back if you are a back sleeper, you will realise that visco-elastic pressure sensitive foam will offer you the best chance for reducing the overall pressure placed on your joints by contouring them without pushing back against them.

Lecturer's work chosen for show

Photographer and multimedia designer Yon Marsh, who lectures at Nescot College, Epsom, has had his work chosen for a major exhibition featuring some of Britain's best photography.

He was selected as one of 30 finalists from more than 250 professionals to exhibit work at the Best of British City of London Photographic Exhibition.

The exhibition runs from November 26 until December 1 at the Photographers Gallery, 81 Leonard Street, London, EC2 4QS.

The exhibition features the very best of British photographic talent including work by Bob Carlos Clarke, Desi Fontaine, Brian Griffin, Barry Lategan, Tom Murray, John Stoddart and John Swannell.

Yon Marsh, who lectures in digital imaging on the foundation degree course in Photoimaging at Nescot College, is pleased to be selected and given the chance to exhibit some new work.

He said: "This is a great feeling as it allows me to demonstrate to my students what it is all about."

Yon Marsh can be contacted at yonmarsh.co.uk

Train as a Home Inspector

Up to 2 million properties being sold every year need Home Information Packs which must include an Energy Assessment carried out by thousands of newly trained Home Inspectors or Energy Assessors. Even more of these new professionals will be needed later next year for the rental sector when Government require 1.6 million properties being let to also have Energy Assessments. Thousands more new Home Inspectors will also be needed if Government confirm Packs must have the currently optional Home Condition Report. This creates new career opportunities and people are urgently required now to train as Home Inspectors in their spare time. No previous surveying experience is required.

Current fee earning expectations are £60 to £100 for Energy Assessments and £200 to £300 for Home Condition Reports, subject to size of properties. Up to 15 Assessments or 6 Reports can be carried out in a week, subject to supply of Assessments and Reports.

Applicants should apply now for a limited number of training places at the Government's ABBE approved Home Inspector Training centres near London and in Bristol, Birmingham and Manchester. The Course mainly consists of 7 separately bookable one-week modules, taken over up to 10 months if this long is

On qualifying you are awarded the Government's ABBE Home Inspector Diploma and are then able to obtain Reports and Assessments on your own account, from other Pack Providers or possibly from our in-house Pack Provider in return for a course subsidy - full details will be given at interview. Once qualified further courses and qualification opportunities, now being researched, may be available to provide additional income streams from property valuations, commercial property Assessments and flood and fire risk Assessments. Ref HGU47A

Dorset

Must Do travel UK

Nature lovers will revel in all that Dorset offers – from its glorious coastline to historic monuments and fabulous countryside. Here we take a look at some of its delights

Harbour lights

A sailing trip around Poole Harbour, by day or night, is a must. Noted for its ecological wonders, Poole Harbour delivers nature lovers and birdwatchers a glimpse of its glory, with plenty of photo opportunities.

What's afoot in Dorset

One of the best ways of touring this region is by foot, allowing time to explore all of nature's nooks and crannies. There are plenty of footpaths in Dorset to choose from.

■ Cockle Trail in Poole: Trace Poole's rich history with a one-and-a-half hour walk around Old Town. Each warehouse along the wharf, and house, cottage, tavern and inn along the way has a story to tell. Part of the Poole Arms dates back to the early 17th century. Ghostly piano music was reported in the Guildhall Tavern and Crown Inn and renovations in the King's Head unveiled five hidden passageways.

■ Stour Valley Way: If you have extra time to spend, try the 64-mile Stour Valley Way footpath leading from Christchurch to Stourhead in Wiltshire. Old mills, bridges, wildlife and historically rich villages await the adventurous. Sturdy shoes are recommended.

■ Castleman Trailway: From Dorset Heathland through fertile farmland, the Castleman's Corkscrew is a meandering 16-mile path following the twists and turns of the railway built by Charles Castleman in 1847. Be sure to take in Avon Heath Country Park and the Moors Valley Country Park along the way.

■ North Dorset Trailway: A trail in progress, the North Dorset Trailway saw its first bridge, tying two sections of the trail together, open recently. The goal of the trail is to bring stunning landscapes and plentiful wildlife to the feet of would-be walkers.

ers. The long-distance North Dorset Trailway follows along the Somerset and Dorset Old Railway Line, linking many of North Dorset's villages.

■ Jurassic Coast Trail: See Golden Cap, England's highest point on the south coast, and take in the drama of Corfe Castle while crossing the 67-mile Jurassic Coast Trail. Cliffs, caves and coastline stretch before those inclined to enjoy a walking holiday. You may even have an opportunity to go fossil hunting here, one of few places awarded World Heritage Site status. Poole's Welcome Centre can provide walking maps and more about the area by calling 01202 253253.

If you have more time to take in Dorset's bounty, try a Quad safari zooming through the Wiltshire downs north of the Dorset border with Mayhem Quad Bikes in Mere; or test your skill while taking in the panoramic views golfing at Dorset Golf and Country Club, Parkstone Golf Course, Moors Valley or Rushmore Golf Clubs.

Take time to monkey around

Most have heard of Aussie animal-lover Steve Irwin, who embraced nature with his infectious enthusiasm. In Great Britain, Jim Cronin's passion for primates and mission to provide refuge for apes is equally inspirational. Jim died in March 2007, but his legacy lasts through the 65-acre Monkey World Ape Rescue Centre in Wareham which he and his wife created to care for more than 160 primates. A family destination, Monkey World shares its vision with visitors who might enjoy a woodland walk, keepers' talks, cafés, shops, picnic areas and a play area for children. Monkey World works with foreign governments to stop the illegal smuggling of apes from the wild and the consequential slaughter of many primates. Monkey World Ape Rescue Centre is west of Poole, near Wool and Wareham. While in the area, visit the Tutankhamun Exhibition in Dorchester, the Weymouth Sea Life Park and Marine Centre in Weymouth, Wimborne Model Village in Wimborne, the Llama Experience in Beaminstor, Swanage Railway in Swanage, Putlake Adventure Park near Swanage, Go Ape at Moors Valley, Owl Sanctuary at Ringwood, the IMAX 3D at Bournemouth, and Honeybrook Farm in Wimborne Minster.

Resplendent flora and fauna restore your senses at the Kingston Maurward Garden and Animal Park in Dorchester. Stopping to smell the flowers is encouraged while touring the fine formal gardens, garden rooms, simple pleasure gardens, the ornamental walled garden and Edwardian garden on this nearly 300-year-old estate. Sir Cecil and Lady Hanbury, a well-known horticultural family, purchased the estate in 1914 and designed the series of garden rooms at Kingston Maurward House. From flora to fauna, the estate's animal park outshines even Old MacDonald's farm with pet-able animals including donkeys, goats, Shetland ponies, pigs, chickens, ducks and rabbits. Find Kingston Maurward near the eastern end of the A35 Dorchester bypass.

If time allows, take a ride on the Seaton Tramway, visit the Abbotsbury Swannery in Weymouth, see the Church Knowle Animal Sanctuary in Wareham, try a Deep Sea Adventure in Weymouth, catch a wave at the Splashdown, visit Tower Park in Poole and Adventure Wonderland in Bournemouth, go to the Oceanarium in Bournemouth, enjoy Paulton Park near Romsey, and make your way through the Great Dorset Maize Maze at Weymouth.

Discerning shoppers delight in Shaftesbury

Walking along Gold Hill in Shaftesbury is like stepping inside a postcard brought to life. Discerning shoppers will find gift-shop gems as boutiques and antiques abound in this market town. High above the Blackmore Vale, Shaftesbury and its charming, thatched-roof cottages and cobblestone street are immortalised as Shaston in Thomas Hardy's novels. Explore the town, browse the shops and search the surrounding countryside for regional specialties; then relax over a cup of tea and a square of Dorset apple cake.

Shopping – with a view

Historians, sailing aficionados and shopoholics find common ground at Brewers Quay in Weymouth's old harbour area. Visitors can indulge in handmade fudge, sample real ale, and splurge in any of 20 speciality shops at Brewers Quay set within the historic Hope Square. Two former breweries were joined together under one roof creating a splendid gift emporium revitalising a historically important part of the harbour.

Brewers Quay also has a museum, restaurant, Timewalk Attraction and 2,000sq ft interactive science centre. To find Brewers Quay, follow the signs in the town centre to Old Harbour, cross the old Town Bridge and follow the signs to Hope Square.

Spider strikes oil with new diesel engine

It says something about how far the diesel engine has come that you can now get one in an open-topped sportscar from Alfa Romeo, writes Steve Walker.

The oil-burning Ferrari may still be some way off, but the fact that those purveyors of effortless Italian cool at Alfa have given a diesel the box seat in their stylish roadster speaks volumes about how far the technology has advanced.

Of course, the Alfa Romeo Spider

Diesel engines and roadsters don't tend to mix well but Alfa Romeo's Spider 2.4-litre JTDM might be an exception

2.4 JTDM 20v could simply be a spectacular error of judgement on the manufacturer's part. What's not in doubt is that this is a car which provokes debate.

The JTD common-rail diesel engines offered by Alfa Romeo and parent company Fiat since 1997 have carved out a good reputation in the marketplace and the 2.4-litre unit in the Alfa Spider is of the second generation JTDM variety. It's what Alfa engineers call a MultiJet diesel.

A mild rumble gives the oil-burning game away and there's none of the aural drama when you plant the throttle that roadster fans yearn for, but the diesel isn't without its appeal on a sensible level.

People thought the Brera coupe looked good but the Alfa Spider has to be even easier on the eye – especially with the fabric roof folded.

That frontal treatment with the chrome bars across the raised triangular grille and those headlamps like jewels set against the darkness behind is fast becoming an Alfa Romeo trademark. The 159 used it as did the Brera but the Spider does so to even greater effect.

At the back, the Brera's rather bulbous rear disappears with the hood folded, thus illuminating the fixed roof car's only major aesthetic Achilles heel.

Actually folding the roof takes some 25 seconds, not quick by modern standards but it means more passers by will be able to witness the spectacle.

It's the running costs that will attract buyers to the 2.4 JTDM engine in the Alfa Spider range. On the combined cycle, it achieves 41.5 mpg which is vastly superior to the 30mpg you can get from the next best 2.2-litre JTS petrol model.

With diesel power installed, most out and out sports cars would lose their essential verve but Alfa's Spider isn't an out and out sports car.

The Alfa Spider is at its best making unhurried progress on a sunny day and letting the world at large revel in its gorgeous styling. For this kind of work, a muscular, fuel efficient diesel can be just the thing.

Polo

At £7,612, it won't break the bank.

In fact, it's an extremely safe investment. With an electronic engine immobiliser, driver and front passenger airbags, central locking, and a hydraulic anti-lock braking system the car's well protected too. While the speed-sensitive power steering and 4-speaker stereo radio/CD player with MP3 compatibility are also included as standard, preventing any further raids on your savings.

Get your tread read before winter sets in

Rubber readings reveal what your car tyres say about you and your driving

You may have had your palm, tea leaves, cards or even your head read, but few motorists will have ever had their tyre tread read. Yet according to Kwik-Fit the seemingly humble car tyre can reveal a mass of information, both about your driving style and your car.

The company says that by looking at motorists' car tyres it can not only spot problems with the car but also with the way it's being driven, and is inviting motorists to come in for a free winter tyre check.

By understanding the basics about car tyres, the company believes that motorists can benefit by extending the lifetime of their tyres and by improving the safety of their vehicles.

According to Kwik-Fit, the four most telltale symptoms of unhealthy tyres and their causes are:

● Excessive wear is concentrated on one edge of the tyre. This can often mean that wheel is not correctly aligned. Motorists may find that the car has a 'pull' and that steering and controlling the vehicle is more difficult.

● Excessive wear is concentrated on both edges of the tyre. More often than not this is a clear signal that the tyre has been used while under-inflated. Your car handbook states the correct tyre pressure needed, according to the weight being carried. Motorists with an under inflated tyre may experience poor handling and braking performance. A correctly inflated tyre will last up to 5,200 miles more than a tyre that is under inflated by 10 per cent.

● Excessive wear is concentrated in the centre of the tyre.

Generally this means that the tyre has been over-inflated but it can also reveal a driver that frequently accelerates too heavily. Over inflated tyres are more liable to puncture and will also give a bumpy ride.

● Bulges in the sidewall of the tyre. These are known in the trade as shock or impact ruptures, and can mean that either a motorist has hit a deep pothole or has hit or mounted the kerb. These weaken the structure of the tyre and increase the risk of the motorists experiencing a puncture or a blowout.

David White, customer service director at Kwik-Fit commented:

"Tyres wear out quicker if they don't sit on the road surface correctly.

"To maximise tyre life, and provide optimum grip, the tread should wear out evenly across the full width of the tyre.

"If you know what you're looking for, tyres can indicate that the vehicle has defective steering and suspension components, including shock absorbers. They also indicate wheel alignment problems.

"Just think, no matter how safely you drive this winter, at the end of the day the only contact you have with the road are four areas each the size of a handprint.

"It is absolutely critical that your tyres are safety checked regularly by an expert."

Any motorists wishing to have their tyre read can do so for free at any one of Kwik-Fit's 670 centres across the UK.

Using a mobile phone behind the wheel may be more dangerous than drink-driving

Drivers continue to flout the law and use handheld mobile phones while behind the wheel, figures released by a road safety website suggest.

Since stricter penalties were introduced earlier this year, 1,119 drivers have been spotted using a mobile and reported to BetterDrivingPlease.com.

The website allows anyone to report bad driving. Nearly a quarter of all its reports involve a mobile phone.

Recently, a motorist was jailed for two years for causing the death of an 80-year-old pedestrian while using her mobile phone at the wheel of her car.

Drivers caught using a mobile phone face a fine and three penalty points.

Andrew McGavin, founder of BetterDrivingPlease.com said the website is placing pressure upon the police to act. He said: "It's no longer socially acceptable to drink and drive, yet we seem to tolerate drivers focusing more on their phone call than the road in front of them. This has to be tackled and it is the police's job to act."

Research released in September by yesinsurance.co.uk showed that using a mobile phone behind the wheel could be worse than drink-driving. Motorists were found to be four times more likely to crash – even if they had a hands-free kit, according to the research.

ATHLETICS: Epsom & Ewell Harriers' 10-mile road race was won by their own Phil Sanger in 56 minutes 44 seconds. Pawel Bal of South London Harriers was second in 57:12. Woking's Susanna Harrison was the women's winner in a time of 67:19, ahead of clubmate Michelle Oldman, in 68:07.

Battling Lenny here to stay

by STUART AMOS
samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

Sutton boxer Lenny Daws has vowed not to quit his quest to regain the British light-welterweight crown, despite failing to clinch the English title last week.

The 28-year-old fighter's clash with old rival Nigel Wright ended in a 95-95 stalemate at York Hall last week – the scene of Daws's greatest win of his 17-bout career.

The former Rosehill ABC member beat Wright in Bethnal Green to lift the famous Lonsdale belt in 2006, but couldn't repeat the success that would have set up a clash with current British title holder Colin Lynes in January.

Daws said he would have considered his future had he lost to Wright last week, but a draw keeps hopes of a return to the big time alive.

But the Morden-born mauler, who dismissed any talk of retirement, has admitted it isn't clear what the future holds for him.

"I'm here to stay. I'm not even thinking of retiring," he said.

"If you get a defeat it is a little bit of a setback, but you clear your head, get back in the gym and you train even harder. I learnt that from the Barry Morrison fight, but this isn't a defeat, it is a draw.

"I'm not sure what is going to happen now. I'll have to see what my promoter can sort out.

"I wouldn't say no to a rematch but whether it is that

or another title fight, we'll have to wait and see."

Daws recovered from a shocking start – a feature of his British title defeat to Morrison in January – that saw him outboxed for the opening four rounds.

He led going into the final three minutes of the 10-round contest, but Wright – who had been cut in the third round from a clash of heads – came out all guns blazing to level the scores in the last.

"I thought I'd just done enough to win it. I caught him with a couple of good combinations in the later rounds," added Daws.

"The English title is cut to 10 rounds and if I'd had the extra two rounds it might have been a different story, but that is boxing.

"I thought he was holding me a bit, which stopped me getting some shots off. Obviously, he had done his homework and knew what he had to do.

"He wanted to hang on to his title. He is a tough kid and dug in hard, so hats off to him."

Sutton are out for revenge

by JOHN ASHTON
sports@london.newsquest.co.uk

Sutton & Epsom resume their London Division One campaign with a home fixture against Portsmouth on Saturday.

The south coast side are one Sutton need to beat if they are to retain their place in the division, with the league split into the haves and have-nots.

Portsmouth have lost their past two matches, and are one place below Sutton in eighth, albeit with a better points differential.

The sides have met only twice previously, both times in the 2005-06 season.

The clash at Rugby Lane marked the high point of Sutton's campaign, when they won 18-0 in some style.

But their visit to Portsmouth was in stark contrast, suffering a 57-0 defeat – their second heaviest in history – in a torrential downpour.

Bad memories: Sutton skipper James Clark after the battering by Portsmouth in 2005

After that, Sutton's season went from bad to worse and they were demoted.

Back now in London One, they will be determined to revenge this defeat.

Not one win for 'One Dart' Manley

Peter 'One Dart' Manley crashed out of the group stages of the ITV-televised PartyBets.com Grand Slam of Darts last weekend at Wolverhampton Civic Hall.

The 45-year-old former Cheam newsagent and world number five lost both of his opening Group D matches to Irthlingborough's ITV wildcard qualifier Kevin McDine (5-2) and Shaun Greatbatch (5-1).

Suffolk-based Greatbatch, who suffered a 5-1 reversal in his opening fixture against Dutchman Jelle Klaasen, produced a sensational 164-checkout in the second leg during his drubbing over Manley.

Manley, who misses the knockout stages, played Klaasen, the 2006 BDO world champion, in his final group match on Monday.

In his next big event, Manley will play in the Ladbrokes.com PDC World Darts Championships, held on December 17 to January 1, at the prestigious Alexandra Palace, Wood Green, North London, for the first time in the event's 15-year history.

He joins the likes of defending Dutch champion Raymond van Barneveld and Stoke's 13-time world champion Phil Taylor in the 64-man draw.

The draw will be made on November 26. Tickets for all sessions are available by calling 0871 230 1092.

Archer arrows to Woods win

Redhill's Sophie Cowper was first woman in 19:45, knocking two seconds off her previous best for the course.

She finished seven seconds ahead of Tri London's Jill Parker, with Sutton & District's Monica Isaac taking 40 seconds off her best as she finished third in 20:29.

Newton leads Sutton charge

Strong winds made it difficult for runners at the Brooks Brighton 10k on the seafront on Sunday morning, when Sutton Runners had two entrants in the 3,000-strong field.

Martin Newton finished 97th in 37 minutes and 35 seconds, ahead of Martin Giles in 188th (39.20).

Lisa Brignull placed second in the Tai Tapu Half-Marathon in New Zealand, clocking 1:32.53.

There was another fine turnout from Sutton Runners at the weekly Banstead Wood 5km time trial on Saturday morning.

Peter Nixon was first home in seventh place in 19:08, ahead of Kevin Stroud (14th in 19.41) and Steve Wise (17th in 19.48).

Banyard eyes top-six finish for Banstead Lyndon excited by emerging Epsom

Banstead Athletic boss Graeme Banyard believes his middle-of-the-table side can still achieve a top six finish in the Combined Counties Premier Division, especially as defender Richard Price will soon be available after an horrific knee injury that has kept him out of action for a year.

Despite having to settle for a 1-1 draw away to second-bottom Sandhurst Town on Saturday, Athletic are now 13th in the table with 24 points from 17 games – only five less than fourth-placed Guildford City –

by TONY FLOOD

tflood@london.newsquest.co.uk who have played one game less.

Banyard said: "We are within a few points of the nine clubs above us, but the four clubs below us are within touching distance of us so it is vital we start putting some wins together. We had a bad run in October in which we were letting in a lot of goals left, right and centre, but we put a stop to that.

"When Richard Price returns in two or three weeks that should help us tighten up the defence even more. He could help us earn a top six finish."

Sandhurst went ahead in the eighth minute through Karl Barrie and were then awarded a penalty for handball, but keeper Dave Tidy saved Nick Rowe's spot kick.

Barrie was sent off after 82 minutes and, a minute later, Steve Coyle grabbed an equaliser for Banstead.

This Saturday Banstead are away to Bookham and on Tuesday host Bedfont Green in the League Cup.

by GERARD MEAGHER

sports@london.newsquest.co.uk

Epsom & Ewell boss Lyndon Buckwell believes his side's resurgence is down to the quality of football they are playing and not just the goals of Robbie Burns.

Buckwell was full of praise for his players after a resounding 4-1 victory over Raynes Park Vale on Saturday lifted Epsom to midtable in the Combined Counties Premier Division, having lost just twice since September.

The revival has seen free-scoring Burns, who notched a brace at the weekend, take his tally to 11 in 10 games.

But Buckwell insists the fact his players are beginning to gel after a disruptive start to the campaign is the main reason to be cheerful.

"We had a lot of new players at the start of the season and it has taken them time to gel, but there is a really good atmosphere down here at the moment and we're beginning to play some excellent football," he said.

"Raynes Park couldn't get the ball off us at times and that doesn't happen very often at this level.

"Robbie is in great scoring form at the moment and Kyle Hough isn't far behind." Buckwell took charge of the club just over a year ago with Epsom & Ewell languishing at the foot of the Combined Counties Premier Division.

However, an overhaul of playing resources sees his side enjoying a change in fortunes with the manager quick to point out the difficulties he faces holding on to the likes of Burns.

Epsom have been run on a shoestring since selling the home ground to share with near neighbours Banstead Athletic, and Buckwell believes the club's recent success is based on trust.

"A number of my players have been messed about by clubs in higher leagues and just want enjoy their football, play with people they can trust and excel for Epsom," he added.

Epsom host Wembley on Saturday.

Welcome return: Carshalton Athletic midfielder Tony Quinton in action against Ramsgate at Colston Avenue on Saturday. He scored the equaliser in the Robins' 2-1 win Deadlinepix SP17521

Point to prove for Tony

Tony Quinton is eager to show his former club Bromley just what they are missing after scoring the first goal of his second spell at Carshalton Athletic.

Quinton's 83rd-minute equaliser and Luke Fontana's last-gasp penalty gave Hayden Bird's side a dramatic 2-1 victory over Ramsgate in the Ryman Premier Division at Colston Avenue on Saturday.

The former Canvey Island midfielder left Sutton United in the summer for a move to Blue Square South big spenders Bromley, but he was forced to leave Mark Goldberg's side in search of first-team football.

And after a brief spell back at Gander Green Lane, Quinton has again made the short trip to Carshalton, where he hopes to finally put down some footballing roots.

He said: "I didn't get a chance at Bromley. I was injured for the first few games but when I got myself fit, I felt I was not given a fair crack of the whip.

"It is brilliant to be back at Carshalton and I hope this will be my last move for a while.

"I want to settle down and play some regular first-team football."

And Quinton was delighted to help the Robins snatch an unlikely victory against promotion contenders Ramsgate.

In a very tight division, the win lifted Carshalton out of the relegation zone and just six points behind Ramsgate in the final play-off place.

"It's always nice to get on the scoresheet, particularly in front of the home crowd who are always encouraging us," said Quinton, who played 17 matches for the Robins in his first spell.

"The club isn't really too different from when I was here a couple of years ago – there has always been a good team spirit here and that hasn't changed.

"I have got a lot of faith in Hayden, otherwise I would not have joined. I have come to help us get into the play-offs and I truly believe we can do that this season.

"There's only six points between us and the play-offs so there's no reason why we can't."

The Robins visit Southern Premier League strugglers Hitchin Town in the FA Trophy third qualifying round on Saturday, before travelling to league leaders Chelmsford City on Monday night.

Haigh awarded highest honour in county bowls

Cheam-based Mike Haigh, one of the county's most respected lawn bowlers, has been awarded the highest accolade the Surrey County Bowling Association can give – that of life member.

Haigh, in his younger days, was captain of Cheam's cricket first XI, played for Cheam's hockey first XI for 16 years, and was a Surrey county regular and England U23 hockey trialist.

It was in 1983 that he transferred his sporting skills to the bowling green at Cheam.

But it was not just to the playing side of the game. Haigh has always believed in giving back to the sport and has been match secretary, secretary and captain at Cheam.

In 1994, he was elected to the Surrey County Bowling Association executive committee.

In 2002, he was honoured by being elected Surrey county president, leading Surrey to the finals of the English National Middleton Cup competition at Worthing.

He is currently publicity officer and is the county's bowls correspondent for the Guardian series.

The honour of life member is awarded only to those who have given exceptional service to the county and to the sport in general – and Haigh certainly deserves it.

Davinia gets England call

Former Sutton & Epsom rugby player Davinia Monteiro (above) believes travelling more than 500 miles a week has been worth it after being picked to represent England.

The 18-year-old Bath University student travels from her home in Somerset to play and train for west London club side London Wasps three times a week.

And the hard work and commitment finally paid off last week with her elevation to the national U20s squad for the coming international season.

Monteiro, who started playing rugby at the age of five, said: "I am really looking forward to wearing the white shirt for England. I have achieved one of my goals."

Banyard's aim

Banstead Athletic manager Graeme Banyard believes his side can still achieve a top-six finish in the Combined Counties Premier Division.

Banyard's men could only draw 1-1 at second-bottom Sandhurst Town on Saturday, but he said: "We are within a few points of the nine clubs above us, so it is vital that we start putting a run of wins together."

Loyalty bonus for Tanners

as manager, but he left of his own accord.

"I reckon the exodus was due to some of the players finding themselves outside their comfort zone - previously they had known they would always be on the team sheet."

Darby believes that new manager Ian Hazel and Stuart Massey, who has been promoted from coach to assistant manager following Langford's departure, are more demanding in terms of training and what they expect on the pitch.

However, the Tanners have lost six of their past seven Ryman League Division One South matches, with only their progress in the FA Trophy giving cause for celebration.

"While we are concerned about recent results, we believe Ian and Stuart can turn things round," said Darby.

"They are still reshaping the side and we hope to bring in two new signings - a forward and a wideman - this week."

Hazel has already snapped up midfielder Ryan Rummery from Whyteleafe and forward Alex Tiesse on loan from Dartford. Both made their debuts in last Saturday's 1-0 home defeat by Chipstead, with Tiesse starting and Rummery coming on as substitute.

The Tanners then went down 3-2 at home to Croydon Athletic Tuesday despite goals from Scott Bennetts and Tiesse.

They visit Southern Premier League side Bashley in the FA Trophy third qualifying round this Saturday, when Rummery and Ryan Palmer are cup-tied.

Leatherhead will be seeking permission from Lewes to play loan keeper Aaron France, but if it is refused, reserve keeper Andy Layzel could start.

Quins sign Epsom trio

Three members of the highly regarded Epsom College rugby squad have been awarded contracts by Guinness Premiership club Harlequins.

Flanker Joe Trayfoot, number eight Chris York and centre George Lowe - who is captain of the Epsom first team - have been snapped up by Quins for next season.

York said: "It is a great honour to have secured this contract. I am looking forward to joining the club next September and the challenges it will offer."

Epsom have enjoyed an outstanding season so far, with victories over RGS Guildford, Harrow, Eastbourne, Tonbridge and, most recently, Sevenoaks by 63-0.
